The Rebirth of the Habsburg Army Scott Lackey, 1995-10-20 Friedrich Beck was the single most important figure in the transformation of the inept Habsburg military into the modern military state that would wage World War I. He correctly perceived that only an elite body of officers responsible for war planning and preparation could provide lasting security for the Austro-Hungarian empire. After firmly establishing the general staff as an institution Beck led war planning to counter threats from Russia Italy and the Balkans and spearheaded a vast rebuilding of the rail network. While his rise to power marked a return to the favorite system of military administration of the early Franz Joseph period Beck proved himself a man with real military ability that revolutionized an army.

Ace in the Hole Timothy J. Botti, 1996-06-21 Using newly released documents the author presents an integrated look at American nuclear policy and diplomacy in crises from the Berlin blockade to Vietnam. The book answers the question why when the atomic bomb had been used with such devastating effect against the Japanese Empire in 1945 American leaders put this most apocalyptic of weapons back on the shelf never to be used again in anger. It documents the myopia of Potomac strategists in involving the U.S. in wars of attrition in Korea and Southeast Asia marginal areas where American vital interests were in no way endangered. Despite the presence of hundreds then thousands of nuclear bombs and warheads in the nation's stockpile the greatest military weapon in history became politically impossible to use. And yet overwhelming nuclear superiority did serve its ultimate purpose in the Cold War. When American vital interests were threatened over Berlin and Cuba the Soviets backed down from confrontation. Despite errors in strategic judgment brought on by fear of Communist expansion and in some cases outright incompetence the ace in the hole proved decisive.
