

A black and white illustration of a road leading into a misty forest, viewed through a torn piece of paper. The road is a two-lane highway with a dashed white line down the center, receding into the distance. The forest is dense with tall, thin trees, and a thick mist or fog hangs between the trees, obscuring the background. The entire scene is framed by a piece of paper with ragged, torn edges, which is set against a dark, textured background.

This book explores the interplay between performing arts intangible cultural heritage and digital environments through a compendium of essays on emerging practices and case studies as well as critical historical and theoretical perspectives. It features essays that engage with varied forms of intangible cultural heritage from music and storytelling to dance theatre and martial arts. Cases of digital technology interventions are provided from different geographical and cultural settings from Europe to Asia and the Americas. Together the collection reflects on the implications that digital interventions have on intangible cultural heritage engagements, its curation and transmission in diverse localities. The volume is a valuable resource for discovering the multiple ways in which cultural heritage is mediated through digital technologies and engages with audiences, artists, users and researchers.
