

A close-up photograph of two Sooty Terns in a lush, green, tropical environment. The bird in the foreground is slightly out of focus, while the one behind it is sharper. Both birds have long, straight, blue-grey bills and reddish-brown plumage on their heads and necks. The background is a dense wall of green foliage, including palm fronds.

Oxford Bookworms Library Factfiles Level 2: Oceans Barnaby Newbolt, 2025-03-01 A wide range of classic and modern fiction non fiction and plays Original and adapted texts from beginner to advanced level Age Secondary CEFR level A1 to C1 Nature Notes for Ocean Voyagers Alfred Carpenter, David Wilson-Barker, 1915 Oceans - With Audio Level 2 Factfiles Oxford Bookworms Library Barnaby Newbolt, 2015-03-05 A level 2 Oxford Bookworms Library graded reader This version includes an audio book listen to the story as you read Written for Learners of English by Barnaby Newbolt Thousands of years ago people looked out across an ocean and asked themselves What is on the other side And the bravest of them began to travel and find the answers beautiful islands frozen lands different peoples And there are still interesting questions about the oceans How do they change our weather Why does the water go up and down twice a day Why do most animals and plants live near the land And what can possibly live at the bottom of the ocean thousands of metres down where there is no light Surely nothing can stay alive in a place like that Handbook for Travellers from Overseas Great Western Railway (Great Britain), 1924 Theatre Across Oceans Nic Leonhardt, 2021-09-15 Theatre Across Oceans Mediators Of Transatlantic Exchange allows the reader to enter and understand the infrastructural backstage area of global cultural mobility during the years between 1890 and 1925 Located within the research fields of global history and theory the geographical focus of the book is a transatlantic one based on the active exchange in this phase between North and South America and Europe Emanating from a rich body of archival material the study argues that this exchange was essentially facilitated and controlled by professional theatrical mediators agents brokers who have not been sufficiently researched within theatre or historical studies The low visibility of mediators in the scientific research is in diametrical contrast to the enormous power that they possessed in the period dealt with in this book A Practical Guidebook for Free Travellers. Translated from Russian by Peter Lagutkin Anton Krotov, 2021-05-12 This book describes the technology of hitch hiking It ll teach you to get lifts from cars locomotives and steamers in Russia and other countries to cover up to 1 000 km 620 miles a day and to find food and lodging in any city of the world It ll teach you to contact correctly with the police local residents and your own parents to treat people and the surrounding world with respect and to be happy as you travel Longitude and Empire Brian W. Richardson, 2010-10-01 Before Captain Cook s three voyages to Europeans the globe was uncertain and dangerous after it was comprehensible and ordered Written as a conceptual field guide to the voyages Longitude and Empire offers a significant rereading of both the expeditions and modern political philosophy More than any other work printed accounts of the voyages marked the shift from early modern to modern ways of looking at the world The globe was no longer divided between Europeans and savages but populated instead by an almost overwhelming variety of national identities Cook s voyages took the fragmented and obscure global descriptions available at the time and consolidated them into a single comprehensive textual vision Locations became fixed on the map and the people animals plants and artifacts associated with them were identified collected understood and assimilated into a world order This fascinating account offers a new understanding of Captain Cook s voyages and how they affected the European world view Delphi Collected Works of P. Expanses Helen M. Rozwadowski, 2018-10-15 Much of human experience can be distilled to saltwater tears sweat and an enduring connection to the sea In Vast Expanses Helen M Rozwadowski weaves a cultural environmental and geopolitical history of that relationship a journey of tides and titanic forces reaching around the globe and across geological and evolutionary time Our ancient connections with the sea have developed and multiplied through industrialization and globalization a trajectory that runs counter to Western depictions of the ocean as a place remote from and immune to human influence Rozwadowski argues that knowledge about the oceans created through work and play scientific investigation and also through human ambitions for profiting from the sea has played a central role in defining our relationship with this vast trackless and opaque place It has helped us to exploit marine resources control ocean space extend imperial or national power and attempt to refashion the sea into a more tractable arena for human activity But while deepening knowledge of the ocean has animated and strengthened connections between people and the world s seas to understand this history we must address questions of how by whom and why knowledge of the ocean was created and used and how we create and use this knowledge today Only then can we can forge a healthier relationship with our future sea

The Frog with Self-Cleaning Feet Michael Bright, 2013-11-01 Did you know that an ostrich egg can make an omelet for ten people How about that crocodiles have the world s most powerful bite yet their mouths can be held shut by a man s bare hands Or that box jellyfish are the most venomous creature in the world and they re almost impossible to see Wild animals do the most extraordinary and sometimes frightening things Some are exceptionally bright using tools and even treating themselves with medicinal plants Others are devious using chemical warfare and theft to get what they want Then there are slackers like the sloth which only moves up to 125 feet a day and the overachievers like the Arctic tern which migrates over forty four thousand miles every year Discover The squid with eyes as big as dinner plates The termite assassin bug The largest rodent you hope to never find in your cupboard And the frog with self cleaning feet If you ve ever wanted to know why a zebra has stripes or which animal is the most dangerous has the loudest voice boasts the longest tongue or is the most mysterious The Frog with Self Cleaning Feet is here to reveal the curiosities of nature Packed full of entertaining surprises and unusual information you may not believe your tiny human sized eyes

Ship Gregory Votolato, 2012-01-01 From oar powered quinqueremes to steam powered freighters to luxury ocean liners such as the Titanic to aircraft carriers like the Abraham Lincoln ships have played an integral role in trade transportation and war throughout history Today ships remain the largest and most expensive moving objects on the planet engineers and designers constantly push the limits of design creating vessels that continue to rival newer technologies such as airplanes and cars But unlike other more common modes of transportation the great ships of the world travel in the deep oceans out of sight and out of mind until that is something goes wrong In Ship Gregory Votolato explores the fiction and the reality of modern ships the technology that creates them and the events that can lead to disasters such as the Exxon Valdez or Amoco Cadiz Here Votolato delves into the world of the ship describing the unpredictable and often hostile environment of weather at sea the resurgent threats posed by pirates and the responsibilities of captains and crews onboard Ship sbroad overview of technology and design also offers unique insights into this extraordinary result of human creativity Votolato s book will appeal to readers interested in the general design history of ships as well as their social political and technological impact on our modern world A Summary of the Scientific Results Obtained at the Sounding, Dredging and Trawling Stations of H.M.S. Challenger Sir John Murray,1895 Report on the Scientific Results of the Voyage of H.M.S. Challenger During the Years 1873-76 Under the Command of Captain George S. Nares ... and the Late Captain Frank Tourle Thomson, R.N. Great Britain. Challenger Office,1895 The Wireless Age ,1916 The Geographical Journal ,1915 Includes the Proceedings of the Royal geographical society formerly pub separately The Universal Traveller Or a Compleat Description of the Several Foreign Nations of the World Thomas Salmon,1759 Transport Revolutions Richard Gilbert,Anthony Pearl,2012-05-16 Transport Revolutions Moving People and Freight without Oil sets out the challenges to our growing dependence on transport fuelled by low priced oil These challenges include an early peak in world oil production and profound climate change resulting in part from oil use It proposes responses to ensure effective secure movement of people and goods in ways that make the best use of renewable sources of energy while minimizing environmental impacts Transport Revolutions synthesizes engineering economics environment organization policy and technology and draws extensively on current data to present important conclusions The authors argue that land transport in the first half of the 21st century will feature at least two revolutions One will involve the use of electric drives rather than internal combustion engines Another will involve powering many of these drives directly from the electric grid as trains and trolley buses are powered today rather than from on board fuel They go on to discuss marine transport whose future is less clear and aviation which could see the most dramatic breaks from current practice With its expert analysis of the politics and business of transport Transport Revolutions is essential reading for professionals and students in transport energy town planning and public policy
