Report Of The Committee Into Human Fertilization And Embryology Cmnd 9314:

Human Reproductive Technologies and the Law Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Science and Technology Committee, 2005 Approximately 1% of births in the UK were conceived using IVF At present IVF and embryo research are controlled by the Human Fertilisation and Embryology Authority which was formed by a 1990 Act since then scientific progress has been rapid and the Department of Health has announced a review of that Act This extensive inquiry will inform that review It covers regulation of assisted reproduction problems with HFE Act the operation of the Act provision of infertility services review of the Act legislative and regulatory models It makes recommendations on issues such as choosing the sex of babies the need for a separate review of abortion the regulatory bodies required and a legislative framework that balances the freedom of the individual with the interests of the state so that any intervention has a sound ethical base

Revisiting the Regulation of Human Fertilisation and Embryology Kirsty Horsey, 2015-06-19 The Human Fertilisation and Embryology Act 2008 was a major update to the UK's laws on the use and regulation of reproductive technology and assisted reproduction Since the enactment of the new law the sector's regulatory body the Human Fertilisation and Embryology Authority HFEA has also consulted on various related topics including barriers to egg and sperm donation in the UK multiple births single embryo transfer and using IVF technology to prevent mitochondrial disease This book critically considers recent developments in human fertilisation legislation asking whether the 2008 Act has achieved its stated aim of being fit for purpose Bringing together a range of international experts the book evaluates the fresh risks and challenges emerging from both established and existing technologies and techniques in the field of human fertilisation and embryology as well as offering valuable insights into the social and regulatory challenges that lie ahead Key topics include problems with DIY assisted conception the lack of reform in respect of the regulation of surrogacy arrangements and mitochondrial DNA transfer As a review of the status of assisted reproduction legislation this book will be of great use and interest to students researchers and practitioners in medical law bioethics medicine and child welfare

The Human Embryo In Vitro Catriona A. W. McMillan, 2021-04-01 The Human Embryo in vitro explores the ways in which UK law engages with embryonic processes under the Human Fertilisation and Embryology Act 1990 as amended the intellectual basis of which has not been reconsidered for almost thirty years McMillan argues that in regulating the embryo that is a processual liminal entity in itself the law is regulating for uncertainty This book offers a fuller understanding of how complex biological processes of development and growth can be better aligned with a legal framework that purports to pay respect to the embryo while also allowing its destruction To do so it employs an anthropological concept liminality which is itself concerned with revealing the dynamics of process The implications of this for contemporary regulation of artificial reproduction are fully explored and recommendations are offered for international regimes on how they can better align biological reality with social policy and law

Human Rights: 21st Century Angela Hegarty, Siobhan Leonard, 2012-11-12

Published in the year 1999 Human Rights 21st Century is a valuable contribution to the field of Law Comparative Healthcare Law Peter De Cruz, 2013-03-04 This work provides a thematic comparative and accessible analysis of key areas of healthcare law in England and Wales comparing these primarily with various selected common law and civil law jurisdictions within a framework of law and medical ethics "Ethics, Law and Society " Jennifer Gunning, 2017-07-05 This key collection brings together a selection of papers commissioned and published by the Cardiff Centre for Ethics Law Society It incorporates contributions from a group of international experts along with a selection of short opinion pieces written in response to specific ethical issues The collection addresses issues arising in biomedical and medical ethics ranging from assisted reproductive technologies to the role of clinical ethics committees It examines broader societal issues with particular emphasis on sustainability and the environment and also focuses on issues of human rights in current global contexts The contributors collect responses to issues arising from high profile cases such as the legitimacy of war in Iraq to physician related suicide The volume will provide a valuable resource for practitioners and academics with an interest in ethics across a range of disciplines First Do No Harm Professor Sheila A M McLean, 2013-02-28 This collection brings together essays from leading figures in the field of medical law and ethics which address the key issues currently challenging scholars in the field It has also been compiled as a lasting testimony to the work of one of the most eminent scholars in the area Professor Ken Mason The collection marks the academic crowning of a career which has laid one of the foundation stones of an entire discipline The wide ranging contents and the standing of the contributors mean that the volume will be an invaluable resource for anyone studying or working in medical law or medical ethics Applied Ethics Ruth F. Chadwick, Doris Schroeder, 2002 Bioethics, Medicine and the Criminal Law Amel Alghrani, Rebecca Bennett, Suzanne Ost, 2013 This volume analyses how effectively criminal law operates as a forum for resolving ethical conflict in the delivery of health care Biotechnology, Gestation, and the Law Elizabeth Chloe Romanis, 2024-11-23 We are all the result of gestation the process of becoming before birth The very nature of human gestation however has shifted and will continue to shift as a result of technology Uterus transplantation and ectogestation and the novel modalities of gestation beyond sex and beyond bodies that they potentially make possible raise unique conceptual problems that have received little attention Biotechnology Gestation and the Law presents the first comprehensive ethico legal analysis of the nature of gestation and of technologies enabling gestation offering a concept analysis grounded in ontology phenomenology politics and law The first three chapters develop a transdisciplinary approach for identifying and exploring the ethical issues raised by uterus transplantation and ectogestation This addresses the ontological and legal confusion about what gestation is how we should classify procreative technologies in relation to gestation and why it is important to have precise classification The remaining chapters use this framework to undertake a rigorous examination of pressing socio legal implications of uterus transplantation and ectogestation who has access to technologies enabling gestation and under what circumstances Who is are the parent s when novel forms of gestation are used How do these technologies disrupt our notions of reproductive biosex and are they tools of emancipation from gendered roles This book and the original conceptual lens it sets out forges a new direction for legal and social reform directed at addressing the harms of constructed gendered procreative and parenting roles In speculating about future possibilities Elizabeth Chloe Romanis brings visibility to the oppressive propagation of biological essentialism that underpins the contemporary regulation of human procreation and considers how to address this issue now and into the future

Technologies of Procreation Jeanette Edwards,1993 An anthropology research team drawn from four British universities explores how assisted conception techniques create the potential for a redefinition of relationships because it is now possible to create life on behalf of another person They draw data and ideas from ethnographic studies household interviews and debates in Parliament and among clinicians Distributed by St Martin's Press Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR

Health Law's Kaleidoscope Belinda Bennett,2008 This book deals with a number of themes including globalization health and regulation and how they occur in the contemporary legal health and ethical context It identifies the core values and concerns that inform current debates in health law and regulation and discusses how they will develop in the future
