teaching of oncology requires a rigorously multidisciplinary approach which is difficult for the Universities to put into practice since their system is mainly disciplinary orientated Secondly the rate of technological development that impinges on the diagnosis and treatment of cancer has been so rapid that it is not an easy task for medical faculties to adapt their curricula flexibly With its residential courses for organ pathologies and the seminars on new techniques laser monoclonal antibodies imaging techniques etc or on the principal therapeutic controversies conservative or mutilating surgery primary or adjuvant chemotherapy radiotherapy alone or integrated it is the ambition of the European School of Oncology to fill a cultural and scientific gap and thereby create a bridge between the University and Industry and between these two and daily medical practice One of the more recent initiatives of ESO has been the institution of permanent study groups also called task forces where a limited number of leading experts are invited to meet once a year with the aim of defining the state of the art and possibly reaching a consensus on future developments in specific fields of oncology

Therapeutic Outcome of Endocrine Disorders Brian Stabler, Barry B. Berku, 2012-12-06 Changes in the allocation of healthcare resources have raised issues related to the efficacy and outcomes of medical therapy and how such factors may be measured The questions associated with the quality of life and functional capability of patients with chronic health conditions have been of special interest Endocrine disorders have the potential for disrupting the general health and well being of affected individuals and their families thus they warrant serious attention This symposium was convened in November 1997 at Palm Beach Gardens Florida to bring together medical behavioral and social scientists The meeting fostered the presentation and discussion of the most current clinical research on the effects of various therapies on a wide range of endocrine disorders from diabetes to adrenal insufficiency and growth hormone deficiency The participants all noted national and international experts in their fields focused their attention on both the biomedical value and effectiveness of treatment as well as on the impact such treatments have on psychological states such as mood and cognition Many presentations specifically emphasized the quality of life QOL indicators that now regularly appear in many research protocols and reports The pioneering work of two clinical researchers was a major highlight of the meeting and an Award of Recognition was presented to Robert Blizzard M D and John Money Ph D for their innovative and insightful work in pediatric endocrinology and psychosexual development
