

Genesis

The Beginning

1 In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth. 2 Now the earth was formless and empty, darkness was over the surface of the deep, and the Spirit of God was hovering over the waters.

3 And God said, "Let there be light," and there was light. 4 God saw that the light was good, and he separated the light from the darkness. 5 God called the light "day," and the darkness he called "night." And there was evening, and there was morning—the first day. 6 And God said, "Let there be an expanse between the waters to separate water from water." 7 So God made the expanse and separated the waters that were under the expanse from the waters that were above the expanse. 8 God called the expanse "sky." And he said, "Let the waters under the sky be full of living creatures, and let birds be filled with life." 9 And God created the great whales and every living creature that moves and every winged bird according to their kinds. And God saw that it was good. 10 And the evening and the morning were the fourth day.

11 And God said, "Let the earth be full of living creatures." 12 So God created the land animals according to their kinds, and every winged bird according to its kind. And God saw that it was good. 13 And God blessed them and said, "Increase in number and be fruitful and multiply on the earth, and be filled with life on the earth." 14 And God said, "Let the earth bring forth living creatures after their kinds: cattle and creeping things and wild animals of the earth, each according to its kind." 15 And God made the wild animals after their kinds, the cattle and creeping things and wild animals of the earth, each according to its kind. And God saw that it was good. 16 And the evening and the morning were the fifth day.
