Film Review Index Patricia King Hanson, Stephen L. Hanson, 1986 Film, Lacan and the Subject of Religion Steve Nolan, 2009-07-23 In their study of religion and film religious film analysts have tended to privilege religion Uniquely this study treats the two disciplines as genuine equals by regarding both liturgy and film as representational media Steve Nolan argues that in each case subjects identify with a represented other which joins them into a narrative where they become participants in an ideological reality Finding many current approaches to religious film analysis lacking Film Lacan and the Subject of Religion explores the film theory other writers ignore particularly that mix of psychoanalysis Marxism and semiotics often termed Screen theory that attempts to understand how cinematic representation shapes spectator identity Using translations and commentary on Lacan not originally available to Screen theorists Nolan returns to Lacan's contribution to psychoanalytic film theory and offers a sustained application to religious practice examining several priest films and real life case study to expose the way liturgical representation shapes religious identity Film Lacan and the Subject of Religion proposes an interpretive strategy by which religious film analysts can develop the kind of analysis that engages with and critiques both cultural and religious practice development and psychoanalysis Sociology on Film Chris Cagle, 2016-12-28 After World War II Hollywood's social problem films tackling topical issues that included racism crime mental illness and drug abuse were hits with critics and general moviegoers alike In an era of film famed for its reliance on pop psychology these movies were a form of popular sociology bringing the academic discipline's concerns to a much broader audience Sociology on Film examines how the postwar problem film translated contemporary policy debates and intellectual discussions into cinematic form in order to become one of the preeminent genres of prestige drama Chris Cagle chronicles how these movies were often politically fractious the work of progressive directors and screenwriters who drew scrutiny from the House Un American Activities Committee Yet he also proposes that the genre helped to construct an abstract discourse of society that served to unify a middlebrow American audience As he considers the many forms of print media that served to inspire social problem films including journalism realist novels and sociological texts Cagle also explores their distinctive cinematic aesthetics Through a close analysis of films like Gentleman's Agreement The Lost Weekend and Intruder in the Dust he presents a compelling case that the visual style of these films was intimately connected to their more expressly political and sociological aspirations Sociology on Film demonstrates how the social problem picture both shaped and reflected the middle class viewer's national self image making a lasting impact on Hollywood's aesthetic direction Monograph American Educational Theatre Association, 1959 Clarence Brown Gwenda Young, 2018-11-23 Greta Garbo proclaimed him as her favorite director Actors actresses and even child stars were so at ease under his direction that they were able to deliver inspired and powerful performances Academy Award nominated director Clarence Brown 1890-1987 worked with some of Hollywood's greatest stars such as Clark Gable Joan Crawford Mickey Rooney Katharine Hepburn and Spencer Tracy Known as the star maker he helped guide the acting career of child sensation Elizabeth Taylor of whom he once said she has a face that is an act of God and discovered Academy Award winning child star Claude Jarman Jr for The Yearling 1946 He directed more than fifty films including Possessed 1931 Anna Karenina 1935 National Velvet 1944 and Intruder in the Dust 1949 winning his audiences over with glamorous star vehicles tales of families communities and slices of Americana as well as hard hitting dramas Although Brown was admired by peers like Jean Renoir Frank Capra and John Ford his illuminating work and contributions to classic cinema are rarely mentioned in the same breath as those of Hollywood's great directors In this first full length account of the life and career of the pioneering filmmaker Gwenda Young discusses Brown's background to show how his hardworking parents and resilient grandparents inspired his entrepreneurial spirit She reveals how the one time engineer and World War I aviator established a thriving car dealership the Brown Motor Car Company in Alabama only to give it all up to follow his dream of making movies He would not only become a brilliant director but also a craftsman who was known for his innovative use of lighting and composition In a career spanning five decades Brown was nominated for five Academy Awards and directed ten different actors in Oscar nominated performances Despite his achievements and influence however

Brown has been largely overlooked by film scholars Clarence Brown Hollywood's Forgotten Master explores the forces that shaped a complex man part dreamer part pragmatist who left an indelible mark on cinema Reframing the Subject Kelly Ritter, 2016-01-23 Mental hygiene films developed for classroom use touted vigilance correct behavior morality and model citizenship They also became powerful tools for teaching literacy skills and literacy based behaviors to young people following the Second World War In this study Kelly Ritter offers an extensive theoretical analysis of the alliance of the value systems inherent in mental hygiene films class based ideals democracy patriotism with writing education an alliance that continues today by way of the mass digital technologies used in teaching online She further details the larger material and cultural forces at work in the production of these films behind the scenes and their effects on education trends Through her examination of literacy theory instructional films policy documents and textbooks of the late 1940s to mid 1950s Ritter demonstrates a reliance on pedagogies that emphasize institutional ideologies and correctness over epistemic complexity and de-emphasize the role of the student in his or her own learning process To Ritter these practices are sustained in today's pedagogies and media that create a false promise of social uplift through formalized education instead often resulting in negative material consequences
