Selected Critical Writings:

Selected Critical Writings David Herbert Lawrence, 1998 A critic must be able to feel the impact of a work of art in all its complexity and force To do so he must be a man of force and complexity himself A critic must be emotionally alive in every fibre intellectually capable and skilful in essential logic and then morally very honest These comments by D H Lawrence are as close a description as any of himself as a critic They come from his essay on fellow novelist John Galsworthy and there are many other pieces on novels and novelists in this selection But Lawrence's range of genres extends to poetry and plays and paintings and his critical writing encompasses an enormous variety of subjects from Aeschylus and the Apocalypse to symbolism and syphilis for his interests are philosophical psychological religious moral sociological historical and cultural as well as literary and artistic This selection is a treasure trove of thought adventures by one of literature's liveliest critical spirits

Selected Critical Writings George Santayana, 1968 Selected critical writings, 1928-1960, ed Richard Aldington, Liu Zaifu: Selected Critical Essays Zaifu Liu, 2021-06-17 Liu Zaifu is a name that has already been ingrained within contemporary Chinese literary history This landmark volume presents Anglophone readers with Liu's profound reflections on Chinese literature and culture at different times The essays collected here demonstrate Liu's historical experience and trajectory as an exiled Chinese intellectual who persistently safeguards the individuality and the autonomy of literature refusing to succumb to political manipulation Liu's theory of literary subjectivity has opened ways for Chinese writers to thrive and innovate His panoramic view not only unravels the intricate interplay between literature and politics but also firmly regards the transcendental value of literature as a significant ground to subvert revolutionary dogmatism and criticize Chinese modernity Rather than drawing upon the existing paradigm he reinvents his own unique theoretical conceptions in order to exile the borrowed gods

Making of the Victorian Novelist Bradley Deane, 2013-10-15 This book examines a sequence of crises in nineteenth century print culture and offers an original narrative of what it meant to be a Victorian novelist Easily dismissed at the beginning of the century as hacks who pandered to the ignorant or indolent novelists by the end of Victoria's reign could be esteemed among the greatest of artists. Between these extremes stretches a century of ideological contention between alternative representations of authorship. Deane brings new attention in his account to the trends in publishing and the expanding market surrounding Victorian literature such as the new modes of production, arguments over copyright legislation and revisions of the criteria of periodical criticism. Combining literary sociology and close readings, The Making of the Victorian Novelist offers an innovative history of the material pressures and rhetorical struggles that produced and ultimately shattered the Victorians' understanding of their great novelists.

Prayer and Embodiment in Nineteenth-Century Women's Writing Elizabeth Ludlow, 2025-02-20 In the 19th century, an era that saw a reconfiguration of the relationship between the self, the world, and the divine, women writers probed the theological depths of embodied faith in new ways through poetry, fiction, devotional prose, and life writing. Elizabeth Ludlow explores how, through this process, they articulated what it means to pray and thereby understand one's place in a world of individual and communal bodies. The eight women writers discussed—Elizabeth Barrett Browning, Josephine Butler, George Eliot, Elizabeth Gaskell, Dora Greenwell, Felicia Hemans, Adelaide Procter, and Christina Rossetti—provide accounts of prayer that stress that the only way to experience and respond to something of the transcendent is through embracing lived experience and through a recognition of the connectedness of all bodies. In detailing how these writers engage with new ways of thinking about faith, desire, and the material world, Ludlow argues that they offer models for ethical modes of being in the world and pave the way for later theologies of embodiment.

British Women's Writing from Brontë to Bloomsbury, Volume 1 Adrienne E. Gavin, Carolyn W. de la L. Oulton, 2018-07-31 This five-volume series, British Women's Writing From Brontë to Bloomsbury 1840-1940, historically contextualizes and traces developments in women's fiction from 1840 to 1940. Critically assessing both canonical and lesser-known British women's writing decade by decade, it redefines the landscape of women's authorship across a century of dynamic social and cultural change. With each of its volumes devoted to two decades, the series is wide in scope but historically sharply defined. Volume 1, 1840s and 1850s, inaugurates the series by historically and culturally contextualizing Victorian women's writing distinctly within the 1840s and 1850s. Using a range of critical perspectives, including political and literary history, feminist approaches, disability studies, and the history of reading, the volume's 16 original essays consider such developments as the construction of a post-Romantic tradition, the politicization of the domestic sphere, and the development of crime and sensation writing. Centrally, it reassesses key mid-nineteenth-century female authors in the context in which they first published while also recovering neglected women writers who helped to shape the literary landscape of the 1840s and 1850s.

Life as Insinuation Katarzyna Krempleska, 2019-04-16 In this book, Katarzyna Krempleska offers a thorough analysis of Santayana's conception of the human self, viewed as part of his larger philosophy of life. Santayana emerges as an author of a provocative philosophy of drama in which human life is acted out. Krempleska demonstrates how his thought addresses the dynamics of the human self in this context and the possibility of sustaining self integrity while coping with the limitations of finite life Focusing on particular aspects of Santayana s thought such as his conception of the tragic aspect of existence and the role of the doctrine of spirit in his philosophical anthropology and critique of culture this book also sets Santayana s thought in substantial dialogue with other thinkers such as Heidegger Bergson and Nietzsche Like Santayana s philosophy this book seeks to build passages between theoretical reflection and practical life with the possibility of a good life in view
