P., for Ashburton, and Afterwards for the County of Devon, Containing Memoranda of Proceedings in the House of Commons During the First Session of the Long Parliament, 1640 Alexander Henry Abercromby Hamilton, 2025-07-27 Reprint of the original first published in 1877 The Antigonos publishing house specialises in the publication of reprints of historical books We make sure that these works are made available to the public in good condition in order to preserve their cultural heritage Old Age in English History Pat Thane, 2000-05-11 At the end of the twentieth century more people are living into their seventies eighties nineties and beyond a process expected to continue well into the next millennium The twentieth century has achieved what people in other centuries only dreamed of many can now expect to survive to old age in reasonably good health and can remain active and independent to the end in contrast to the high death rate ill health and destitution which affected all ages in the past Yet this change is generally greeted not with triumph but with alarm It is assumed that the longer people live the longer they are ill and dependent thus burdening a shrinking younger generation with the cost of pensions and health care It is also widely believed that the past saw few survivors into old age and these could be supported by their families without involving the taxpayer In this first survey of old age throughout English history these assumptions are challenged Vivid pictures are given of the ways in which very large numbers of older people lived often vigorous and independent lives over many centuries The book argues that old people have always been highly visible in English communities and concludes that as people live longer due to the benefits of the rise in living standards far from being burdens they can be valuable contributors to their family and friends

How Literary Worlds Are Shaped Bo Pettersson, 2016-09-12 Literary studies still lack an extensive comparative analysis of different kinds of literature including ancient and non Western How Literary Worlds Are Shaped A Comparative Poetics of Literary Imagination aims to provide such a study Literature it claims is based on individual and shared human imagination which creates literary worlds that blend the real and the fantastic mimesis and genre often modulated by different kinds of unreliability The main building blocks of literary worlds are their oral visual and written modes and three themes challenge perception and relation They are blended and inflected in different ways by combinations of narratives and figures indirection thwarted aspirations meta usages hypothetical action as well as hierarchies and blends of genres and text types Moreover literary worlds are not only constructed by humans but also shape their lives and reinforce their sense of wonder Finally ten reasons are given in order to show how this comparative view can be of use in literary studies In sum How Literary Worlds Are Shaped is the first study to present a wide ranging and detailed comparative account of the makings of literary worlds
