Studies on Eighteenth-Century Geology Rhoda Rappaport, edited by Kenneth L. Taylor, 2023-04-21 In a scholarly career spanning five decades Rhoda Rappaport published perceptive analyses of science in the culture of early Modern Europe. France in particular with strong emphasis on geology's early development. Of the sixteen papers in this volume most focus on aspects of geology's cultivation during the long 18th century from the times of Hooke Leibniz and Fontenelle to those of Lavoisier Werner and Cuvier. Among the topics most closely treated here are the French mineralogical mapping project initiated by Guettard contemporary efforts to interpret the earth historically such as through Noah's Flood and difficulties presented by the vocabulary often used in traditional histories of geology. Much of Rappaport's research addressed two problems prevalent within 18th century earth science the proper understanding of petrifications or fossil objects and struggles to establish reliable knowledge of the earth's past. She also examined the chemistry of G.F. Rouelle which she saw as effectively an attempt at systematic comprehension of the entire mineral realm transnational features of scientific pursuits as illustrated in the careers of the naturalist Vallisneri and the mineralogist and philosophe d'Holbach and aspects of science's promotion in France through government patronage and academic privilege.

Afraid Robert Wuthnow, 2010-04-07 Robert Wuthnow has been praised as one of the country's best social scientists by columnist David Brooks who hails his writing as tremendously valuable. The New York Times calls him temperate balanced compassionate adding one can't but admire Mr Wuthnow's views A leading authority on religion he now addresses one of the most profound subjects the end of the world In Be Very Afraid Wuthnow examines the human response to existential threats once a matter for theology but now looming before us in multiple forms Nuclear weapons pandemics global warming each threatens to destroy the planet or at least to annihilate our species Freud he notes famously taught that the standard psychological response to an overwhelming danger is denial In fact Wuthnow writes the opposite is true we seek ways of positively meeting the threat of doing something anything even if it's wasteful and time consuming The atomic era that began with the bombing of Hiroshima sparked a flurry of activity ranging from duck and cover drills basement bomb shelters and marches for a nuclear freeze All were arguably ineffectual yet each sprang from an innate desire to take action It would be one thing if our responses were merely pointless Wuthnow observes but they can actually be harmful Both the public and policymakers tend to model reactions to grave threats on how we met previous ones The response to the terrorist attacks of 9/11 for example echoed the Cold War citizens went out to buy duct tape mimicking 1950s era civil defense measures and the administration launched two costly conflicts overseas Offering insight into our responses to everything from An Inconvenient Truth to the bird and swine flu epidemics Robert Wuthnow provides a profound new understanding of the human reaction to existential vulnerability
