Manual Of Macrophage Methodology:

Manual of Macrophage Methodology Herbert B. Herscovitz, 1981 Macrophages, 2000-09-14 Macrophages are an important part of the immune response and are characterized by their ability to phagocytose foreign matter. However, the difficulties involved in macrophage isolation mean they are some of the body's least explored cells. Macrophage Methodology describes how to isolate moderate to high yields of viable cells from a variety of specific tissue sites under both normal and pathological conditions and then goes on to give protocols for macrophage purification. The third chapter covers techniques used to identify and measure endocytic and phagocytic capabilities using immunochemistry and fluorescent analysis. Chapter four identifies the key issues relating to the study of macrophages as antigen presenting cells and has protocols for the major assays used to measure antigen processing and presentation. Also covered are the theoretical and practical issues related to the processing and presentation of intracellular pathogens for which macrophages are the major host cell. The methods described for measuring macrophage secretory products concentrate on bioassays for molecules where no ELISA is available. The next two chapters cover measuring macrophage activity in vitro and in vivo. Finally, methods are described for the analysis of gene expression in macrophages. A variety of broad techniques have been brought together in one affordable volume to make Macrophage Methodology an essential buy for anyone studying macrophages.

Introduction to In Vitro Cytotoxicology Frank A. Barile, 2019-06-04 First Published in 1994. Introduction to In Vitro Cytotoxicology examines in vitro cytotoxicology which offers new methodologies to toxicity testing. This important new discipline of modern toxicology is gaining increased acceptance as a viable alternative to traditional testing methods. The text discusses the application of in vitro cytotoxicology to toxicity testing and human risk assessment and it analyzes the advantages and limitations of the tests performed under scientific and regulatory conditions. The book also reviews the optimum utilization of certain tests for specific groups of chemicals relevant to validation programs currently in progress. This book is a useful reference tool for students, researchers, and practitioners interested in academic, industrial, and regulatory toxicology, environmental health, cell biology, pharmacology, dentistry, or human and veterinary medicine.

Friedman, 2012-12-06 The subject matter of this volume was the basis for a conference held in Philadelphia in June 1981 and is an important one in the contemporary area of how the host interacts with micro organisms In conception it grew out of a graduate course entitled The Infectious Process which has been taught in the Department of Microbiology and Immunology at Temple University School of Medicine during the past twelve years This course has explored the broad areas of mechanisms of microbial pathogenesis and host resistance by in depth consideration of selected models of experimental infection and immunity as well as the clinical literature It is noteworthy that there is no adequate text for this material as the subject matter naturally crosses a wide spectrum of traditional disciplinary lines encompassing topics as diverse as the mechanisms of action of bacterial toxins the role of complement and antibody in phagocytosis and the importance of cross reacting bacterial polysaccharide antigens in vaccine development A major portion of the course has always considered cellular immunity as it applies to host defenses to intracellular pathogens It is in this area that the necessity for amalgamation of information from different disciplines is most evident for one must be intimately concerned with the interactions between the microbe and the phagocyte both before and after specific immune recognition Antibiosis and Host Immunity Andor Szentivanyi, Herman Friedman, Günther Gillissen, 2012-12-06 This book contains 32 chapters based on the corresponding papers delivered at the International Symposium on Antimicrobial Agents and Immunity held in Siena Italy on May 2 4 1985 as a Satellite Symposium of the Third International Conference on Immunopharmacology held in Florence Italy on May 6 10 1985 As editors we express our profound appreciation and gratitude to the authors who have contributed so richly to this volume and we think that it may not be too much to hope that a new cadre of investigators and students will share this gratitude for these records of experience and insight into antibiotic and host parasite interactions We owe a very special gratitude to Mrs Christine Abarca for her outstanding editorial assistance in the preparation of this book Andor Szentivanyi M D University Distinguished Professor Departments of Pharmacology and Internal Medicine University of South Florida College of Medicine Tampa Florida Herman Friedman Ph D Professor and Chairman Department of Medical Microbiology and Immunology University of South Florida College of Medicine Tampa Florida Gunther Gillissen M D Ph D Professor and Chairman Department of Medical Microbiology Faculty of Medicine RWTH Aachen F R G Adoptive Cellular Immunotherapy of Cancer H.
