Migration as Anchorage Michelle Obeid,2025-09-01 On a temporary visit to London a Palestinian family found themselves unable to return to Gaza during Israel s 2008 war on their city Understanding their stay in London as an act of anchoring the family opened a Palestinian caf and sought to make their lives as individuals as a family and as a community viable in the face of uncertainty By following the stories of various family members as they struggled to recreate a sense of home this moving ethnography introduces the concept of anchorage as a novel lens to understand migration home and place highlighting the fluidity temporariness and serendipity of these experiences

Listening Up, Writing Down, and Looking Beyond Susan Gingell,Wendy Roy,2012-08-01 Listening Up Writing Down and

Looking Beyond is an interdisciplinary collection that gathers the work of scholars and performance practitioners who together explore questions about the oral written and visual The book includes the voices of oral performance practitioners while the scholarship of many of the academic contributors is informed by their participation in oral storytelling whether as poets singers or visual artists Its contributions address the politics and ethics of the utterance and text textualizing orature and orality simulations of the oral the poetics of performance and reconstructions of the oral      Therapeutic Nations Dian Million,2013-09-26 Self determination is on the agenda of Indigenous peoples all over the world This analysis by an Indigenous feminist scholar challenges the United Nations based human rights agendas and colonial theory that until now have shaped Indigenous models of self determination Gender inequality and gender violence Dian Million argues are critically important elements in the process of self determination Million contends that nation state relations are influenced by a theory of trauma ascendant with the rise of neoliberalism Such use of trauma theory regarding human rights corresponds to a therapeutic narrative by Western governments negotiating with Indigenous nations as they seek self determination Focusing on Canada and drawing comparisons with the United States and Australia Million brings a genealogical understanding of trauma against a historical filter Illustrating how Indigenous people are positioned differently in Canada Australia and the United States in their articulation of trauma the author particularly addresses the violence against women as a language within a greater politic The book introduces an Indigenous feminist critique of this violence against the medicalized framework of addressing trauma and looks to the larger goals of decolonization Noting the influence of humanitarian psychiatry Million goes on to confront the implications of simply dismissing Indigenous healing and storytelling traditions Therapeutic Nations is the first book to demonstrate affect and trauma s wide ranging historical origins in an Indigenous setting offering insights into community healing programs The author s theoretical sophistication and original research make the book relevant across a range of disciplines as it challenges key concepts of American Indian and Indigenous studies      British Columbia's Inland Rainforest Susan K. Stevenson,Harold M. Armleder,André Arsenault,Darwyn Coxson,S. Craig DeLong,Michael Jull,2011-07-01 The vast temperate rainforests of coastal British Columbia are world renowned but much less is known about the other rainforest located 500 kilometres inland along the western slopes of the interior mountains The unique integration of continentality and humidity in this region favours the development of lush rainforest communities that incorporate both coastal and boreal elements This book brings together for the first time a broad spectrum of information about the ecology management and conservation of this distinctive ecosystem Accessibly written and generously illustrated the chapters examine the physical social economic and ecological dimensions of the rainforest They also look at how the delicate balance of this ecosystem has been threatened by human use and climate change In the past governments encouraged the forest industry to clearcut the decadent old stands and replace them with rapidly growing young trees of other species More recently out of concern for the ecological consequences of such practices researchers have begun to examine alternative management strategies This book offers a vision that combines various strategies in order to balance the conservation of the inland rainforest as a fully functioning ecosystem with human use of its diverse resources     Culturing Wilderness in Jasper National Park I.S. MacLaren, Michael Payne, Peter J. Murphy, PearlAnn Reichwein, Lisa McDermott, C. J. Taylor, Gabrielle Zezulka-Mailloux, Zac Robinson, Eric Higgs, 2012-07-02 Adults need playgrounds In 1907 the Canadian government designated a vast section of the Rocky Mountains as Jasper Forest Park Tourists now play where Indigenous Peoples once lived fur traders toiled and M tis families homesteaded In Culturing Wilderness in Jasper National Park I S MacLaren and eight other writers unearth the largely unrecorded past of the upper Athabasca River watershed and bring to light two centuries worth of human history tracing the evolution of trading routes into the Rockies largest park Serious history enthusiasts and those with an interest in Canada s national parks will find a sense of connection in this long overdue study of Jasper Foreword by The Rt Hon Jean Chr tien     Spirits of the Rockies Courtney W. Mason, 2014-09-24 The Banff Bow Valley in western Alberta is the heart of spiritual and economic life for the Nakoda peoples While they were displaced from the region by the reserve system and the creation of Canada s first national park in the twentieth century the Nakoda reasserted their presence in the valley through involvement in regional tourism economies and the Banff Indian Days sporting festivals Drawing on extensive oral testimony from the Nakoda supplemented by detailed analysis of archival and visual records Spirits of the Rockies is a sophisticated account of the situation that these Indigenous communities encountered when they were denied access to the Banff National Park Courtney W Mason examines the power relations and racial discourses that dominated the eastern slopes of the Canadian Rocky Mountains and shows how the Nakoda strategically used the Banff Indian Days festivals to gain access to sacred lands and respond to colonial policies designed to repress their cultures     The Heart of Helambu Tom O'Neill, 2016-01-01 The Heart of Helambu is an evocative and touching account of Tom O'Neill s experiences undertaking ethnographic fieldwork in Kathmandu and the Helambu region of Nepal
