Recent Developments in Catfish Aquaculture Douglas Tave, Craig S. Tucker, 1994-03-23 This book is a single convenient source of information that covers priority areas of research in channel catfish aquaculture. Recent Developments in Catfish Aquaculture compiles some of the latest research in the field as presented at the Catfish Research Symposium. The editors present a diverse collection of chapters that illustrates recent research efforts in catfish culture and shows the scope of research that is being conducted in nutrition, genetics, water quality management, economics, fish health, and pond production systems. Some of the contributing authors' chapters are developmental, but many contain information that can be immediately applied to commercial situations to improve production efficiency. A variety of subjects are covered in this catfish resource, including Health Issues, immunology, vaccination, selection, drug evaluation, nutritional causes, Genetics, hybridization, selection, Hatchery Management, new techniques to incubate eggs, control of fungus on developing eggs, evaluation of mechanical graders, Production Economics, comparison of different approaches, Water Quality, discovery and identification of an algae that kills catfish, off-flavor, water circulators, Nutrition, effects of feed on growth and fattiness of fish, nutritionally induced health problems, Food Technology, impedance, microbiology for evaluation and safety of processed catfish, Behavior, behavioral interactions, and feeding behavior. Recent Developments in Catfish Aquaculture shows the paradox that exists in catfish farming research. On one hand, extremely sophisticated research is being used to solve complex problems. On the other, the basic method of raising catfish has not yet been determined. Several chapters describe important new developments in the field and will lead to important breakthroughs and developments in the future. This volume is required reading for those conducting catfish research or catfish culture, including university and federal aquaculture researchers as well as students. They will find it useful as a reference guide, and catfish farmers will find it helpful as a guide to recent advances in production technology.

Investment planning to minimize climate risk in agricultural production: An optimization model for a semi-arid region in India Deb Pal, Barun, Kumar, Shalander, Patan, Elias Khan, 2020-12-12 The primary aim of this study is to prioritize investment required for scaling up climate smart agriculture CSA technologies across different districts of Telangana state which is in the semi arid region of India First we analysed the trade offs between expected agricultural income and its deviation across districts under drought and normal weather scenarios The conventional MOTAD model was extended with various climate smart technologies to assess their role in minimizing the trade offs under various weather scenarios A district level panel dataset on cost of cultivation and crop production for 11 major crops under six different climate smart technologies and farmers practices for five years 2010 11 to 2014 15 has been used The dataset comprised a collation of official statistics on cost of cultivation focus group interviews with farmers over the years and data from experimental plots of Regional Agricultural Research Stations The analysis reveals that the adoption of CSA technologies is likely to reduce production risk by 16% compared to farmers traditional practices FTPs while achieving optimum levels of crop income Under a scenario of higher probability of drought production risk is likely to increase by 12% in the state under FTPs the adoption of CSA technologies could reduce the risk by 25% The study suggests increasing investments in farm ponds and un puddled machine transplanting in rice to minimize the risk return trade offs under a higher drought frequency scenario Finally the study generates evidence for policymakers to make informed investment decisions on CSA in order to enhance farming system resilience across districts in the semi arid state of Telangana India
