Accessible Summary

What is known on the subject?

- To date, the majority of the research regarding innovative psychosocial interventions in psychiatry focuses upon the development and effectiveness of the interventions. Despite the fact that these are important clinical and scientific contributions, only a small percentage of the evidence-based interventions reach clinical practice.
- Cognitive Adaptation Training (CAT) is an effective psychosocial intervention to increase daily functioning and cognitive functioning in people diagnosed with severe mental illness (SMI) in inpatient and outpatient psychiatric care.
- Despite knowledge on the intervention's effectiveness, systematic use of CAT in the daily routine of mental health nurses is insufficient.

What the paper adds to existing knowledge?

- To date, no research is available that describes the factors associated to the implementation of CAT from a nursing perspective.
- This research also adds to the literature on rehabilitation in people diagnosed with SMI in an inpatient setting.
- The results contribute to the science of implementing interventions in long-term psychiatric care and may help future interventions in their implementation process.

What are the implications for practice?

- This study highlights that multiple factors need to be considered when implementing an intervention in routine care and that it is a complicated process.
- Future implementation initiatives require ongoing training and supervision of CAT specialists, appointment of local champions to increase commitment among nursing staff and inclusion and commitment of management to overcome organizational barriers.

A Pragmatic Approach to Psychiatric Rehabilitation: Lessons from Chicago's Thresholds Program Jerry Dincin, 1995-12-27. There are three components in psychiatric rehabilitation: medication, the rehabilitation relationship, and rehabilitation program efforts. This volume deals with all three, assessing their importance and explaining how they can be integrated in comprehensive psychiatric rehabilitation. The example used throughout is the program approach at Thresholds, a Chicago based agency for psychiatric rehabilitation. All the contributors have held important staff roles at Thresholds. This volume contains the contributors' current thoughts on psychiatric rehabilitation, illustrated by the story of how and why Thresholds operates as it does and how it arrived where it is today. This is the 68th issue of the quarterly journal New Directions for Mental Health Services. For more information on the series, please see the Journals and Periodicals page.

From Therapeutic Relationships to Transitional Care Cheryl Forchuk, 2021-03-21. This text provides a foundational understanding of therapeutic relationships and the transitional discharge model (TDM), a person centered, evidence based model that supports a smooth transition from hospital to community for people with mental illness. Starting with background into the ground breaking work of Dr. Hildegard Peplau, the mother of modern psychiatric nursing, and moving towards a transdisciplinary transitional discharge perspective, chapters introduce students and practitioners to theoretical, historical, and current perspectives on therapeutic relationships as they relate to transitional care. These perspectives foreground empirical research and practical applications that can be implemented in hospital and community settings. The Appendix features an essential TDM toolkit with forms, learning topics, and checklists developed by programs that implement TDM. Essential reading for those studying psychiatric nursing, this book combines theory, research, and best practices into a roadmap for students across nursing and psychiatric disciplines to coordinate these systems without having to implement radical changes to practice.
