In the last two decades China has become a dramatically more urban society and hundreds of millions of people have changed residence in the process Family and communal bonds have been broken in a country once known as a society of kith and kin There has been a pervasive sense of moral crisis in contemporary China and the new market economy doesn't seem to offer any solutions This book investigates how the Chinese have coped with the condition of modernity in which strangers are routinely thrust together Haiyan Lee dismisses the easy answers claiming that this moral crisis is merely smoke and mirrors conjured up by paternalistic overwrought leaders and scholars or that it can be simply chalked up to the topsy turvy of a market economy on steroids Rather Lee argues that the perception of crisis is itself symptomatic of a deeper problem that has roots in both the Confucian tradition of kinship and the modern state management of stranger sociality This ambitious work is the first to investigate the figure of the stranger foreigner peasant migrant bourgeois intellectual class enemy unattached woman animal across literature film television and museum culture Lee's aim is to show that hope lies with a robust civil society in which literature and the arts play a key role in sharpening the moral faculties and apprenticing readers in the art of living with strangers In so doing she makes a historical comparative and theoretically informed contribution to the on going conversation on China's uncivil society

Heritage and Debt David Joselit, 2020-03-10 How global contemporary art reanimates the past as a resource for the present combating modern art's legacy of Eurocentrism If European modernism was premised on the new on surpassing the past often by assigning it to the traditional societies of the Global South global contemporary art reanimates the past as a resource for the present In this account of what globalization means for contemporary art David Joselit argues that the creative use of tradition by artists from around the world serves as a means of combatting modern art's legacy of Eurocentrism Modernism claimed to live in the future and relegated the rest of the world to the past Global contemporary art shatters this myth by reactivating various forms of heritage from literati ink painting in China to Aboriginal painting in Australia in order to propose new and different futures Joselit analyzes not only how heritage becomes contemporary through the practice of individual artists but also how a cultural infrastructure of museums biennials and art fairs worldwide has emerged as a means of generating economic value attracting capital and tourist dollars Joselit traces three distinct forms of modernism that developed outside the West in opposition to Euro American modernism postcolonial socialist realism and the underground He argues that these modern genealogies are synchronized with one another and with Western modernism to produce global contemporary art Joselit discusses curation and what he terms the curatorial episteme which through its acts of framing or curating can become a means of recalibrating hierarchies of knowledge and can contribute to the dual projects of decolonization and deimperialization
