The Linguistic Individual Barbara Johnstone, 1996-06-27 Linguists usually discuss language or dialects in terms of groups of speakers Believing that patterns can be seen more clearly in the group than the individual researchers often present group scores with no indication of the variation within the group Even though linguists acknowledge that no two individuals speak alike few study individual variation and voice Barbara Johnstone makes a case for the individual's importance and idiosyncrasies in language and linguistics Using theoretical arguments and discourse analysis along with linguistic examples from a variety of speakers and settings Johnstone illustrates how speakers draw on linguistic models associated with class ethnicity gender and region among others to construct an individual voice In doing so Johnstone shows that certain important questions in sociolinguistics and pragmatics can only be answered with reference to individual speakers Johnstone s study is important both for the understanding of speech as expressive of self and for the study of variation and mechanisms of linguistic choice and change

Dialogue Analysis: Units, relations and strategies beyond the sentence Edda Weigand,Eckhard Hauenherm,2011-07-13 The topic of this volume was discussed at a Round Table of the International Association for Dialogue Analysis IADA at the University of Bologna in March 1995 The Round Table was intended to make a scientific contribution in honour of the president s 65th birthday The topic refers on the one hand to the central problem of Dialogue Analysis which is to discover a new communicatively functioning unit after having left behind the unit of the sentence which can be considered the unit par excellence of structural linguistics On the other hand it includes the manifold units relations and strategies i e the specific problems of dialogue analysis

Narrative Performances Alexandra Georgakopoulou,1997-01-01 Conversational narratives provide valuable resources for the discursive construction and invoking of personal and sociocultural identities As such their sociolinguistic and cultural analysis constitute a high priority in the agenda of discourse studies This book contributes to the growing line of discourse analytic research on the dynamic relations between narrative forms and functions and their immediate and wider communicative contexts The volume draws on a large corpus of spontaneous conversational stories recorded in Greece where everyday storytelling is a central mode of communication in the community s interactional contexts and thus a rich site for a meaningful enactment of social stances roles and relations The study brings to the fore the stories text constitutive mechanisms and explores the ways in which they situate the narrated experiences globally by invoking sociocultural knowledge and expectations and locally by making them sequentially and interactionally relevant to the specific conversational contexts The stories micro and macro level analysis richly illustrated with narrative transcripts throughout leads to the uncovering of a global mode of narrative performance which is based on a closed set of recurrent devices It is argued that the choice or avoidance of this mode is at the heart of the stories re constitution of a self an other and a sociocultural world The numerous cases of intergenerational narrative communication adults children shed additional light on the performance s contextualization aspects and contribute to the cross cultural understanding of the dynamics of oral performances Besides students and researchers of discourse analysis sociolinguistics anthropological linguistics narrative analysis and Greek studies this book will also appeal to all those interested in communication and cultural studies

The Appropriation of Media in Everyday Life Ruth Ayaß,Cornelia Gerhardt,2012-09-11 This volume contributes to the burgeoning field of interactional linguistic media studies It focuses on how people appropriate media in their daily lives Thus here it is not the talk in the medium itself but naturally occurring interactions in different media reception situations that are analysed The idea that media function like a hypodermic needle injecting messages into the masses has long been questioned Still the actual moment when people use media in their daily lives has largely been ignored in media studies This book analyses the minutiae of the moment when people actively appropriate media for their own purposes in different fashions The reception communities analysed include families watching television girls gossiping about a talent show teenagers playing video games a team of fire men implementing a new medium in their workplace radio listeners phone ins and others The languages studied comprise English German French Swedish and Finnish Millennials Talking Media Sylvia Sierra, 2021 Friends don't let friends skip leg day You shall not pass I'll be back The way we read these lines whether or not you picture Gandalf hear the deep monotone of the Terminator or smile makes it clear that media consumption affects our everyday lives language and how we identify as part of a group Millennials Talking Media examines how U S Millennial friends embed both old media books songs movies and TV shows and new media YouTube videos videogames and internet memes in their everyday talk for particular interactional purposes Sylvia Sierra presents case studies featuring the recorded talk of Millennial friends to demonstrate how and why these speakers make media references and use them to handle awkward moments and other interactional dilemmas Sierra's analysis shows how such references contribute to epistemic management and frame shifts in conversation which ultimately work together to construct a shared sense of Millennial identity Building on contemporary work in media studies Sierra weaves together the most current linguistic theories regarding knowledge framing and identity to create a book that will be of interest to Boomers Gen Xers Millennials and Gen Z alike Constructive Resistance Mona Lilja, 2021-02-05 This book examines constructive resistance practices that range from street protests to the use of photographic images and displays their role in local and global political processes By building on a rich selection of interview material and other empirical research the book elaborates on different cases of constructive resistance where close attention is paid to the productive qualities that are involved It offers new perspectives on the undertakings of different epistemic battles that occur around current issues such as gender nationalism climate change migration and the right to land and explores personal narratives artistic expressions and public statements that are utilized as means of resistance and performed in order to negotiate different established truths More specifically the book discusses the discursive struggles regarding migrant bodies where artifacts that pertain to the hardship are presented in Swedish museums the Preah Vihear temple conflict between Cambodia and Thailand the border conflict in West Sahara the self making of self defined women politicians in Cambodia and climate activism communication Through discussions on the importance of figurations posters narratives photographs artifacts and buildings in the establishing of contemporary discussions and world views the book inquires how and why these representations are re imparted with meaning and the effect that this has The book does not only illustrate different forms of resistance but also contributes theoretically to our understanding of repetitions emotions and time which are properties that must be embarked upon in order to capture the various dimension of resistance Given that the type of constructive resistance that is expanded upon is about processes of significations the time aspect how alternative truths are repeated and thereby established over time becomes crucial And resistance has a temporality of its own for example close authorities are instantly resisted here and now while meaning making resistance suffers from the inescapable time lag of processes of signification In all forms of resistance emotions prevail as an important engine of political struggles and as is displayed in this book emotions are an important means of constructive resistance
