Repositioning Higher Education:

Repositioning Higher Education Frank Coffield, Bill Williamson, 1997-01-01 The writers in this book envisage a system of higher education fit for the new millennium They challenge the fatalism of much current thinking about mass higher education and identify the ways universities must take the initiative in defining radically different models of their futures They look to universities which are accessible accountable and growing steadily with adequate resources They envisage institutions which promote democratic values offer high quality lifelong learning opportunities and are based on a new contract with and vision for the society they serve Repositioning Higher Education develops a powerful critique of current orthodoxies in higher education and will provoke further open debate about the role of higher education in modern society

Adamson, Jon Nixon, Feng Su, 2012 This book presents accounts of the repositioning of higher education institutions across a range of national contexts in the East and the West It argues that global governance institutional organisation and academic practice are complementary elements within the process of institutional repositioning While systems institutions and individuals in the different contexts are subjected to similar global trends and pressures the reorientation of higher education takes diverse forms as a result of the particularities of those contexts That reorientation cannot be explained in terms of East West dichotomies and divisions but only with reference to the interflow across and within national systems Globalisation necessitates complex interconnectivities of regionality culture and geopolitics that this book explores in relation to specific cases and contexts

Continuing the Journey to Reposition Culture and Cultural Context in Evaluation Theory and Practice Stafford Hood, Rodney Hopson, Henry Frierson, 2014-12-01 Racial ethnic linguistic and cultural diversity has become of global importance in places where many never would have imagined Increasing diversity in the U S Europe Africa New Zealand and Asia strongly suggests that a homogeneity based focus is rapidly becoming an historical artifact Therefore culturally responsive evaluation CRE should no longer be viewed as a luxury or an option in our work as evaluators The continued amplification of racial ethnic linguistic and cultural diversity and awareness among the populations of the U S and other western nations insists that social science researchers and evaluators inextricably engage culturally responsive approaches in their work It is unacceptable for most mainstream university evaluation programs philanthropic agencies training institutes sponsored by federal agencies professional associations and other entities to promote professional evaluation practices that do not attend to CRE Our global demographics are a reality that can be appropriately described and studied within the context of complexity theory and theory of change e g Stewart 1991 Battram 1999 And this perspective requires a distinct shift from simple linear cause effect models and reductionist thinking to include more holistic and culturally responsive approaches The development of policy that is meaningfully responsive to the needs of traditionally disenfranchised stakeholders and that also optimizes the use of limited resources human natural and financial is an extremely complex process Fortunately we are presently witnessing developments in methods instruments and statistical techniques that are mixed methods in their paradigm designs and likely to be more effective in informing policymaking and decision making Culturally responsive evaluation is one such phenomenon that positions itself to be relevant in the context of dynamic international and national settings where policy and program decisions take place One example of a response to address this dynamic and need is the newly established Center for Culturally Responsive Evaluation and Assessment CREA in the College of Education at the University of Illinois at Urbana Champaign CREA is an outgrowth of the collective work and commitments of a global community of scholars and practitioners who have contributed chapters to this edited volume It is an international and interdisciplinary evaluation center that is grounded in the need for designing and conducting evaluations and assessments that embody cognitive cultural and interdisciplinary diversity so as to be actively responsive to culturally diverse communities and their aspirations The Center's purpose is to address questions issues theories and practices related to CRE and culturally responsive educational assessment Therefore CREA can serve as a vehicle for our continuing discourse on culture and cultural context in evaluation and also as a point of dissemination for not only the work that is included in this edited volume but for the subsequent work it will encourage

Globalisation and Higher Education in the Arab Gulf States Gari Donn,Yayha Al Manthri,2010-05-10 In our knowledge based world the societies that prosper are the ones that generate knowledge through research through the interwoven relationship between the academe and funded research bodies and with industry They are the new centre It is strange indeed to think of the countries of the Arab Gulf States as the periphery But as the authors of this book argue very persuasively by importing a baroque arsenal of increasingly sophisticated and costly educational programmes the Arab Gulf States consume other countries knowledge and products all of which are of declining utility and sustainability Whilst universities contribute to the culture and political life of modern society the authors ask where in the Arab Gulf States is there capacity building knowledge generation and the culture of imaginative ideas that lie at the root of any civilisation By following a magistracy on a global journey through regions nations and into institutions their answers are intended to inform and to urge the Arab Gulf region into promoting education for its own self determination and even its survival

Rethinking Knowledge within Higher Education Jan McArthur, 2013-01-10 Rethinking Knowledge within Higher Education argues for a higher education that is neither a romantic idyll of learning for its own sake nor an instrumental institution designed to train a willing workforce for the prevailing economic system Instead using analysis informed by critical theorist Theodor Adorno this book argues that higher education should have social and economic roles at its heart and that these should encompass the needs of all society The key to achieving this purpose without privilege lies in the ways in which knowledge is understood and engaged with in higher education Higher education has a special role in society as a place in which complex contested and dynamic knowledge is engaged with challenged and created The realization of this purpose challenges traditional dichotomies between economic and social purposes liberal and vocational education and theory and practice Jan McArthur shows that by interpreting and adapting some of Adorno's most complex ideas the nature of knowledge and the pursuit of social justice within higher education is feasible and aspirational
