"Race, Representation & Photography in 19th-Century Memphis " Earnestine Lovelle Jenkins, 2017-07-05 Race Representation Photography in 19th Century Memphis from Slavery to Jim Crow presents a rich interpretation of African American visual culture Using Victorian era photographs engravings and pictorial illustrations from local and national archives this unique study examines intersections of race and image within the context of early African American communities It emphasizes black agency looking at how African Americans in Memphis manipulated the power of photography in the creation of free identities Blacks are at the center of a study that brings to light how wide ranging practices of photography were linked to racialized experiences in the American south following the Civil War Jenkins book connects the social history of photography with the fields of visual culture art history southern studies gender and critical race studies

The Burden of Representation John Tagg, 1993 Photographs are used as documents evidence and records every day in courtrooms hospitals and police work on passports permits and licenses But how did such usages come to be established and accepted and when What kinds of photographs were seen seen as purely instrumental and able to function in this way What sorts of agencies and institutions had the power to give them this status And more generally what conception of photographic representation did this involve and what were its consequences

Representation and Photography Manuel Alvarado,Edward Buscombe,Richard Collins,2001-02-03 Representation and Photography contains 12 classic articles by important thinkers such as John Berger Victor Burgin Griselda Pollock Jo Spence and John Tagg These seminal essays were first published between 1976 and 1981 in Screen Education the influential journal that pioneered the teaching and study of the visual image They applied to the still image many of the new ideas derived from semiotics Marxism and psychoanalysis that were being developed within the related field of film studies In this book they are collected together for the first time Representation Stuart Hall,1997-04-08 This broad ranging text offers a comprehensive outline of how visual images language and discourse work as systems of representation Individual chapters explore representation as a signifying practice in a rich diversity of social contexts and institutional sites the use of photography in the construction of national identity and culture other cultures in ethnographic museums fantasies of the racialized Other in popular media film and image the construction of masculine identities in discourses of consumer culture and advertising and the gendering of narratives in television soap operas Race, Representation and Photography in

19th-century Memphis Earnestine Jenkins,2016 Navajo and Photography James C. Faris,1996 This thorough critical examination of photographic practices calls attention to the inability of most photography to communicate the lived experiences of native people or their history Faris s survey beginning with the earliest photographs of Navajos in captivity at the Bosque Redondo and including the most recent glossy picture books and calendars points up the western assumptions that have always governed photographic representation of Navajo people Drawing on exhaustive archival research to unearth rarely published photographs as well as unpublished photographs by well known photographers Faris documents Navajo resistance to the West s view and viewfinder and persistent attempts to overcome or dismiss such resistance He challenges the photographic history of the Navajo people as presented by photographers historians and anthropologists and explores the social and legal conditions that make such photography possible Confronting many readers nostalgic expectations Navajo and Photography will appeal to all those with an interest in the juxtaposition of cultures Public Bodies/private States theorists in a multi disciplinary examination of the body Image Or Imagination? - The Problem of Photographic Representation Anne Thoma, 2007-07 Seminar paper from the year 2006 in the subject Communications Theories Models Terms and Definitions grade 1 0 University of Tübingen Englisches Seminar course Key Terms for Studying Culture 39 entries in the bibliography language English abstract Altered pictures have always caused much controversy Even when photography was still in its infancy manipulative arrangement was already an issue Nowadays digital photography in particular faces an erosion of trust because newsmagazines and newspapers make frequent use of various manipulation techniques which fiercely challenges the shared belief that photographs record the world objectively and truthfully Oddly enough even though a picture may lie it is still used as evidence in the courtroom or understood as a valuable historical document In my analysis of photography s oscillation between image and imagination with the two terms representing something traditionally thought of as real on the one hand and something thought of as constructed on the other hand I want to address these questions and analyse how and what a picture represents I argue that meaning is to a large extent constructed by the viewer and does not exist as an inherent quality Consequently whether an altered picture is seen as fraud or merely as an optimisation is a very subjective matter and strongly depends on contextual information The viewer s judgement is influenced by the path through which the image is mediated and the context in which it is embedded but his judgement is also dependent on what the image means to him not only on what he sees in it This is not to say that photographs can under no circumstances be used as evidence However what can be said is that their truth value is often overestimated In any case manipulation is not a side effect that coincided with the birth of digital photography Selection framing and other adjustments have always played an important role in film photography After a gen Photography and Philosophy Scott Walden, 2010-03-29 This anthology offers a fresh approach to the philosophical aspects of photography The essays written by contemporary philosophers in a thorough and engaging manner explore the far reaching ethical dimensions of photography as it is used today A first of its kind anthology exploring the link between the art of photography and the theoretical questions it raises Written in a thorough and engaging manner Essayists are all contemporary philosophers who bring with them an exceptional understanding of the broader metaphysical issues pertaining to photography Takes a fresh look at some familiar issues photographic truth objectivity and realism Introduces newer issues such as the ethical use of photography or the effect of digital imaging technology on how we appreciate images Auto Hans Hedberg, Gunilla Knappe, Tyrone Martinsson, Louise Wolthers, 2014 Today we are all photographers Self portraits are everywhere and snapshots of our lives are circulated and shared frenetically on various social media networks Distinctions are blurred not only between the private and public spheres but also between professional and amateur photographic practices This calls for increased knowledge about the performative characteristics of digitised and networked visual communication What are the limits of automation and what is the potential of virtuality Auto investigates how the everyday digital photography of our times
