Functional Foods I. Goldberg, 2012-12-06 Accuse not Nature She has done her part Do Thou but Thine Milton Paradise Lost 1667 The concept that nature imparted to foods a health giving and curative function is not new Herbal teas and remedies have been used for centuries and continue in use in many parts of the world today In modern society we have turned to drugs to treat mitigate or prevent diseases However since the discovery of nutrients and our increasing analytical capabilities at the molecular level we are beginning to become more knowledgeable of the biochemical structure function relationship of the myriad of chemicals that occur naturally in foods and their effect on the human body The holistic approach to medicine and diet that began in the 1970s has now seen a renewal as we realize that certain foods because of the presence of specific biochemicals can have a positive impact on an individual's health physical well being and mental state In fact because of the negative image of drugs and the grey area of supplements the use of foods that are functional is becoming a growth area for the food industry In Japan this concept has led to one of the largest growing markets where they have defined functional foods as regular foods derived only from naturally occurring ingredients The Japanese further require that the functional foods be consumed as part of the diet and not in supplement form i e Hepatitis B and the Prevention of Primary Cancer of the Liver Baruch S. Blumberg, 2000 This important book comprises a narrative account of research on the hepatitis B virus and related subjects and selected reprints from the laboratory of Nobel laureate Baruch S Blumberg and his colleagues The hepatitis B virus HBV is one of the ten most common deadly infectious diseases and is responsible for 1.1 million deaths a year worldwide Research in his laboratory resulted in the discovery of HBV and the invention of the vaccine which protects one against it The research began as an apparently esoteric study of human biochemical and immunologic variation This required field work in Africa the Arctic the Pacific the Americas and in many other locations and populations The overall goal was to identify inherited biological differences which were related to differing responses to disease causing agents The virus was discovered using the blood of an infected person who had developed the antibody to detect the virus present in another infected person who had become a carrier of the virus Screening of blood donors led to the near elimination of post transfusion hepatitis B There are now national HBV vaccination programs in more than 70 countries During the past decade these programs have strikingly reduced the prevalence of HBV in many countries and there has been a significant drop in the incidence of cancer of the liver in the vaccinated cohorts The HBV vaccination program is now after smoking cessation the most widely used cancer prevention program in the world

Nutrients in Cancer Prevention and Treatment Kedar N. Prasad, Leonida Santamaria, R. Michael Williams, 2012-12-06 Nutrients in Cancer Prevention and Treatment contains articles that were presented by leading researchers and physicians in the field of nutritional oncology Most of the previous conference proceedings on Nutrition and Cancer have dealt primarily with the issue of the role of nutrients in cancer prevention This is logical because enormous quantities of laboratory and epidemiologic data have been published on the topic Nutrients in Cancer Prevention and Treatment also contains several studies on the role of diet and vitamins in cancer treatment There are very few books that have reviewed laboratory and clinical studies and the role of vitamins in cancer treatment There are preliminary data suggesting that daily supplementation with high doses of certain vitamins in combination with conventional therapeutic agents may enhance their growth inhibitory effects on tumor cells and may protect normal tissues against some of their toxic effects This book is unique in the sense that several articles have discussed the mechanisms of action of individual vitamins on cellular and molecular parameters It is very exciting to note that some of the vitamins inhibit protein kinase C activity increase the production of certain growth factors and modulate the expression of a number of oncogenes These studies at least in part offer rationales for the cancer protective effects of vitamins Nutrition in the Prevention and Treatment of Disease Ann M. Coulston, Carol
