Nutrition For Life:

Integration of environment and nutrition in life cycle assessment of food items: Opportunities and challenges

McLaren, S., Berardy, A., Henderson, A., Holden, N., Huppertz, T., Jolliet, O., De Camillis, C., Renouf, M., Rugani, B, 2021-12-23 This report is the outcome of a consensus building project to agree on best practices for environmental and nutritional Life Cycle Assessment nLCA methodology and identify future research needs The project involved 30 nutritional and environmental LCA researchers from 18 countries It focused on the assessment of food items as opposed to meals or diets Best practice recommendations were developed to address the intended purpose of an LCA study and related modeling approach choice of an appropriate functional unit assessment of nutritional value and reporting nLCA results An nLCA study should report the quantities of as many essential nutrients as possible and aim to provide information on the nutritional quality and or health impacts in addition to nutrient quantities Outstanding issues requiring further research attention include defining a minimum number of nutrients to be considered in an nLCA study treatment of nutrients to limit use of nutrient indexes further development of Impact Assessment methods representation of nutritional changes that may occur during subsequent distribution and food preparation in cradle to gate nLCA studies and communication of data uncertainty and variability More data are required for different regions particularly developing countries for the processing distribution retail and consumption life cycle stages and for food loss and waste Finally there is a need to extend nLCA methodology for the assessment of meals and diets to consider further how to account for the multi functionality of food in a sustainability framework and to set nLCA studies within the context of environmental limits These results provide a robust basis for improving nLCA methodology and applying it to identify solutions that minimize the trade offs between nourishing populations and safeguarding the environment
