Maureen R. Elenga

Made To Last Historic Preservation In Seattle And King County:

Made to Last Lawrence Kreisman, 1999 Despite Seattle's relative youth its buildings and historic sites are reminders of a rich and colorful heritage Made to Last describes exemplary preservation programs in Seattle and King County how they developed and the process of landmark designation and the extent of protection offered landmark properties Descriptions and photographs provide a guide to individual buildings and landmark districts demonstrating how each played a part in the remarkably swift development of the county and city Some of the finest examples of the many rehabilitation and adaptive reuse projects accomplished through creative public and private financing are described and illustrated as are the personal stories of commitment perseverance and labor that have spurred the renewal of properties designated or not and made them useful again Made to Last celebrates buildings whose age is not a detriment but rather a valuable and contributing force in the community

A Passion to Preserve Will Fellows, 2005-08-26 From large cities to rural communities gay men have long been impassioned pioneers as keepers of culture rescuing and restoring decrepit buildings revitalizing blighted neighborhoods saving artifacts and documents of historical significance A Passion to Preserve explores this authentic and complex dimension of gay men's lives by profiling early and contemporary preservationists from throughout the United States highlighting contributions to the larger culture that gays are exceptionally inclined to make Seattle Monorail Project, 2004

Seattle's Women Teachers of the Interwar Years Doris Hinson Pieroth, 2012 In Seattle's Women Teachers of the Interwar Years Doris Pieroth describes the contributions of a remarkable group of women who dominated the Seattle public school system in the early years of the twentieth century and helped to produce well educated citizens who were responsible for the widespread philanthropic volunteer and municipal activities that came to characterize the city While most publications on the history of education have emphasized theory or administration Pieroth focuses on individual teachers Set against the backdrop of a developing city the book provides vivid portraits of educated strong ambitious women making successful careers at a time when job opportunities for women were very limited Pieroth interviewed as many of these women as she could find and quotes from the interviews enhance her lively well written narrative Using details drawn from local newspapers and school publications she demonstrates that the influence of this cohort of women made modern Seattle the livable place that it remains today Seattle's Women Teachers of the Interwar Years is a significant contribution to the history of Seattle and the region to women's history and to the history of education

A President, a Church, and Trails West Jon E. Taylor, 2008 Examines the efforts of Independence Missouri to preserve and balance competing elements of the city's history as the hometown of President Harry S Truman as the site where Joseph Smith established the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints and as the historic gathering place for western emigration Provided by publisher
