Home truths

WHETHER YOU WORK AT HOME OR JUST NEED SOMEWHERE FOR ADMIN, YOU'LL GET MORE DONE IF YOUR WORK SPACE IS A PLEASANT PLACE TO BE

BY CLARE BOWEN

THE BENEFITS OF WORKING from home are many and various. The commute from business to desk takes minutes and can be done in your pyjamas. If household chores can be fitted in between it's hours of emergency and a stress relief as it makes life. Tasks can be completed around the children's activities. The fridge with all its tasty treats is moments away. Your cat feels loved.

The downside are the distractions: the call of the fridge becomes incessant; chores add to the list; and it's hard to stay on top of the demands of children because you're not in the car making an appointment or on video conferences. Your phone doesn't glom onto you have to keep begging out to the internet – which is also full of distractions.

To maximise efficiency without relinquishing homeliness, you need a space that is both practical and attractive, even if you use your home office solely to email friends and pay bills. Ideal with all the ergonomic bits and bobs – the chair, the desk, the filing cabinet – there must be more like one other in the house (even if it's a utility hole under the stairs). For a start, if it's a utility hole, install it with pins and photos, there is a comfortable chair for domestic reading, add plenty of plants and an attractive desk lamp. A word of warning, though, avoid televisions, DVDs and computer games consoles are not built in between bouts of Candy Crush.

One of the benefits of working from home is that you can work in your pyjamas.

SITTING DOWN VS STANDING

You might think sitting at a desk doesn't do anyone any favours. If you sit for more than six hours a day, the risk of heart disease increases by up to 10 per cent. So, is the solution a standing desk? Not necessarily. Sitting isn't bad, but sitting for long periods without moving increases your risk of cardiovascular disease and even blood circulation to drop. You standing isn't better than sitting if you do it for a long time. We'd stick to a comfortable chair.

ARE YOU SITTING PRETTY?

Your office chair is the most valuable investment you'll make for your home office. Don't be tempted by thoughts of slouching about in an armchair with an iPad for maximum efficiency and good health, you need to be upright and well supported – you need a good chair. But before you buy one, make sure it fits these criteria:

- Is the seat adjustable? Your feet should rest on the floor. If they don't, buy a footrest. And your elbows should be just above the table top.
- Does the chair swivel so you can reach for things without twisting your torso?
- Does the backrest ensure that your spine is S-shaped? And does it tilt back to push this helps you breathe by opening the chest, and prevents shoulder and back aches.
- Is the rest of the chair made from breathable fabric so it doesn't get too hot, and is it padded enough to support your

MAKING OFFICE

So, just because you're at home doesn't mean you can't be professional. In fact, it's a great opportunity to be more professional than you are in the office. The secret of home working is to create a professional environment. Don't let your home office be a mess.

When you're at home, you're all alone. If you have a room, make it a professional space. Manage your time, and you'll be a professional.
