Teachers and Schooling Making A Difference Pam Christie, Bob Lingard, 2020-08-04 Teachers Schooling Making a Difference takes seriously the question that teachers ask What do I do on Monday and does provide answers From the foreword by Professor Michael Apple University of Wisconsin Education debates are currently dominated by free market ideologists who push privatisation and competition as the answer to every problem regardless of damage to schools and pupils Teachers Schooling Making a Difference shows that we can think about education in a far more productive way Professor R W Connell University of Sydney This book is a lesson in making hope practical It makes a compelling argument for recognising supporting and enabling teachers as central to progressive school reform Professor Jenny Ozga University of Edinburgh What teachers do in the classroom really matters even though schools cannot compensate fully for difficulties children may face at home and in society Good teachers and good schools have been making a difference in children s lives for generations but what exactly is it that works Based on extensive research in 1000 primary and secondary classrooms this book examines the tough questions about teaching methods curriculum assessment and teachers professionalism The authors isolate the key elements that make the difference in the classroom and offer teachers practical approaches to working with all their students Teachers and Schools Making a Difference is essential reading for teachers and school administrators who want to improve their professional skills and offer a genuinely democratic education

Identity, Neoliberalism and Aspiration Garth Stahl, 2015-01-09 In recent years there has been growing concern over the pervasive disparities in academic achievement that are highly influenced by ethnicity class and gender Specifically within the neoliberal policy rhetoric there has been concern over underachievement of working class young males specifically white working class boys The historic persistence of this pattern and the ominous implication of these trends on the long term life chances of white working class boys has led to a growing chorus that something must be done to intervene This book provides an in depth sociological study exploring the subjectivities within the neoliberal ideology of the school environment in order to expand our understanding of white working class disengagement with education The chapters discuss how white working class boys in three educational sites enact social and learner identities focusing on the practices of meaning making and identity work that the boys experienced and the disjunctures and commonalities between them The book presents an analysis of the varying tensions influencing the identity of each boy and the consequences of these pressures on their engagement with education Drawing on Bourdieu s theoretical tools and a model of egalitarian habitus Identity Neoliberalism and Aspiration Educating white working class boys will be of interest to academics researchers and postgraduate students in the field of sociology of education and those from related disciplines studying class and gender

Families, Education and Giftedness Jim Campbell, Laura Mazzoli Smith, 2013-02-12 What is it like to be YOUNG GIFTED AND WORKING CLASS in contemporary England How do working class family values support high educational achievement What do researchers and policy makers have to learn about giftedness from working class families These provocative questions are explored in this ground breaking book Most studies of giftedness focus on the characteristics of individuals and draw upon psychological frameworks to understand them Participants in most gifted education programmes are recruited disproportionately from the higher social classes Sceptical of the concept of giftedness Mazzoli Smith and Campbell question conventional methodologies using a narrative approach to understand how four families of working class origins each with a gifted child construct their values in relation to education and social class They explore the influence of their family histories cultural values and life styles upon educational engagement and achievement The authors show that gifted education policies are poorly matched to the values of these families and argue that much research into giftedness has been flawed by social and cultural discrimination They propose an agenda for change in research paradigms in the giftedness field which should be characterized by interdisciplinarity and more culturally relative conceptions of giftedness

Hard Labour? Academic Work and the Changing Landscape of Higher Education Tanya Fitzgerald, Julie White, Helen Gunter, 2012-01-05 Drawing on data from Australia England and New Zealand this book addresses how neo liberal policies of successive governments have decreased autonomy of academics and increased regimes of surveillance radically altering how academics think about and engage in their intellectual work
