Educational Ills and the (Im)possibility of Utopia Joff Bradley, 2020-05-21 As a bold provocation to reimagine what the philosophy of education might mean in the 21st century this book responds to the exhaustion of present theoretical models and indeed the degradation of fabulative thought in its current prospectus The contributors from Asia the Americas and Europe proffer a frank response to the everyday reality of the classroom where teachers compete with electronic devices for the attention of students whose minds are literally elsewhere cocooned in the noospheric ether Outside of lecture halls the world is suffering the rise of fascism panic and anger driven by precarious employment and a looming fatalism and resignation in the face of ecological calamity These developments have led to an avalanche of psychical woes afflicting young people ranging from trauma the loss of hope and in extremis violence and suicide The concerned and committed writers of this volume therefore raise the timely question of the return of utopia as a fitting desperate and indeed necessary response to the ecological existential and pedagogical crises spreading across the planet At this most crucial juncture in human history the excellent contributions to this book offer singularly unique perspectives regarding the possibility impossibility of utopia This book was originally published as a special issue of the journal Educational Philosophy and Theory

The Transformation of Children's Services Joan Forbes, Cate Watson, 2011-10-03 Can we imagine different ways of working together to secure better outcomes for children and families What are the complex issues that underlie the apparently simple call for joined up services Children's services in many countries around the world are being transformed as part of the call for joined up working for joined up solutions Social health and educational policy discourses are driven by the idea that effective inter professional interagency collaboration is crucial in determining whether service delivery to children and families will succeed or fail However the rapid turn from previous inter professional practices of liaison consultancy cooperation and collaboration to more radical and wholesale service integration and sector transformation has not been accompanied either by a well considered research agenda of hard questions nor close scrutiny of its effects and consequences The book asks a series of searching and challenging questions What are the complex issues involved in children's sector transformation for all those involved young people practitioners leaders and managers policy makers How can the silos in which professionals have traditionally been prepared for practice be broken down What are the orthodoxies that surround joined up working and in what ways should they be challenged Written by authors from across the wide range of professional policy and disciplinary groups involved in this new cross cutting area of policy and practice this book provides a critical analysis of the complexities of children's services transformations The research in this collection addresses the range of discursive policy and organizational developments associated with the transformation of children's services providing an important and timely analysis of their complexities and is essential reading for all those working in the complex spaces of children's services
