Art Rethought Nicholas Wolterstorff, 2015-09-11 Human beings engage works of the arts in many different ways they sing songs while working they kiss icons they create and dedicate memorials Yet almost all philosophers of art of the modern period have ignored this variety and focused entirely on just one mode of engagement namely disinterested attention In the first part of the book Nicholas Wolterstorff asks why philosophers have concentrated on just this one mode of engagement The answer he proposes is that almost all philosophers have accepted what the author calls the grand narrative concerning art in the modern world It is generally agreed that in the early modern period members of the middle class in Western Europe increasingly engaged works of the arts as objects of disinterested attention The grand narrative claims that this change represented the arts coming into their own and that works of art so engaged are socially other and transcendent Wolterstorff argues that the grand narrative has to be rejected as not fitting the facts Wolterstorff then offers an alternative framework for thinking about the arts Central to the alternative framework that he proposes are the idea of the arts as social practices and the idea of works of the arts as having different meaning in different practices He goes on to use this framework to analyse in some detail five distinct social practices of art and the meaning that works have within those practices the practice of memorial art of art for veneration of social protest art of works songs and of recent art reflexive art

The Social World of Galleries Alain Quemin, 2024-10-17 This book presents the first detailed study of the place of contemporary art galleries and gallerists especially within the art markets of Europe and the United States Based on the author's field research carried out for over a decade and combining ethnographic material with quantitative data the book reveals the major role galleries play in the creation of art value Despite being pillars of the art market there has been very little in depth research on galleries especially when compared with the analysis of artists critics and dealers Written by a sociologist who has spent a decade as an art critic the book builds on work conducted by art historian and sociologist Raymonde Moulin from the 1960s to the 1990s Drawing on ethnographic observations and interviews with those working in the field today it provides a thorough and up to date analysis of what contemporary art galleries really are the spaces they occupy both physically and online their position within gallery districts their relation to art fairs and biennials and how friendship with clients is built and trends within the business in turn illuminating the hierarchized structure of the sector The book concludes by addressing a significant gap in data on the art market by providing a sociological ranking of international contemporary art galleries Offering a detailed analysis to a topic that has never been fully studied The Social World of Galleries is essential reading for scholars and students of art sociology art history and art business as well as gallerists collectors or art lovers and artists themselves 1983 D.
