Julius Caesar William Shakespeare,2004-04-08 The First Folio of 1623 is the definitive edition of Shakespeare's plays It is more often than not the closest we can now get to what Shakespeare actually wrote But the Folio's antiquated typography and cramped layout make it remote and inaccessible to modern eyes The Shakespeare Folios on the other hand offer easy access directly to the First Folio by presenting the text in modern type but otherwise unchanged All the First Folio's idiosyncrasies of layout and spelling even its obvious errors have been scrupulously left intact but the text suddenly becomes as easily legible as the script of any modern play As an additional aid to understanding readers will find printed opposite each page of the Folio the very same passage in a modern edition So whenever the Folio presents a problem the reader can refer to this parallel text for a solution either in the text itself or in the set of notes at the end of the book These notes draw on the long tradition of Shakespearean scholarship and include full reference to surviving Quarto texts

The First Quarto of King Henry V William Shakespeare, 2000-06 The Quarto text of Henry V is of unique importance. It is the first and probably the only text of a Shakespeare play which provides the playscript corresponding to the version that was actually performed by Shakespeare's own company. It has the authority of being transcribed by actors in the company as a record of their original staging at the Globe in 1599. The quarto version differs radically from the First Folio text, which is used as the source for all other editions. Half as long as the Folio, it represents a practical staging text that streamlined the script supplied by Shakespeare. This edition of the Henry V quarto provides a modernized text alongside the extensive commentary. Andrew Gurr examines each variant from the Folio text in detail, shedding new light on what happened to scripts that the Shakespeare company bought from their resident playwright.
