oncology nurses Community Palliative Care Sandra Aitken, 2009-04-13 Community Palliative Care examines the complex support and information needs of seriously ill patients and their families and will encompass not only the patient's journey but that of the family during the illness trajectory and into the bereavement period. The text is divided into three sections: professionals, patients, and carers. The first section discusses the roles and contributions made by other members of the primary health care team and examines the role of the nurse. Section two explores the psychosocial support needed by patients receiving palliative care and looks at the community palliative care clinical nurse specialists' role in relation to psychological as well as practical problems surrounding a life-threatening illness. The final section will look at the needs of the family and carers and the support that the community palliative care clinical nurse specialist can offer to the individuals. Included in this segment will be the complex issues faced by carers in relation to the changing roles within the family, children, death, and bereavement.

Textbook of Surgical Oncology Graeme J. Poston, Daniel Beauchamp, Theo Ruers, 2007-11-15 Surgery alone cures more than 60% of those patients whose cancer are amenable to curative treatment Surgical oncology is not universally accepted as a unified discipline worldwide There are many reasons for this situation including the drive to anatomic site specialization but also the need to provide comprehensive general surgical provision to more isolated and rural communities Textbook of Surgical Oncology written by a highly acclaimed list of international authors comprehensively covers the role of the surgical oncologist in the management of patients with solid tumors This book provides a state of the art review of cancer surgery for senior residents approaching certification at the completion of their training as well as providing an up to date reference work for established clinicians in their day to day practice including those in general surgery surgical oncology urologists gynecologists thoracic neurosurgical radiation oncologist and medical oncologists

Handbook of Health and Rehabilitation Psychology Anthony J. Goreczny, 2013-11-11 Despite medical technological advances the major killers with which we must currently contend have remained essentially the same for the past few decades Stroke cancer and heart disease together account for the vast majority of deaths in the United States In addition due to improved medical care many Americans who would previously have died now survive these disorders necessitating that they receive appropriate rehabilitation efforts One result of our own medical advances is that we must now accept the high costs associated with providing quality care to individuals who develop one of these problems and we must avail ourselves to assist afflicted individuals families Despite the relative stability of causes of death and disability the health care field is currently experiencing tremendous pressures both from professionals within the field who desire more and better technology than is currently available and from the public and other payers of health care e.g. insurance companies who seek an end to increasing health care costs These pressures along with an increased emphasis on providing evidence of cost effectiveness and quality assurance are substantially changing the way that health care professionals perform their jobs
