Intermediate Care of Older People Siân Wade, 2006-02-22
 Intermediate care has become a buzzword within health and social care over the last few years Seen as the panacea for a number of woes particularly for older people intermediate care has been held up as a way forward within contemporary health and social care This text explores in detail what is understood by the concept of intermediate care and in particular ways in which the needs of older people can be best met by this new range of services Initial discussion centres on the concept of intermediate care and the motives for its development This is followed by a summary of the range of intermediate care services that have been developed with a discussion of some of the confusion that surrounds the concept

The debate then moves on to centre on older people discussing first why older people have come to be perceived as one of the main client groups that may benefit from intermediate care and then how intermediate care could be developed to better serve their needs. An overview of ageing and the uniqueness of older people is then provided followed by an exploration of some of the challenges faced by older people within society and how this has extended into the delivery of health and social care.

Nursing for Wellness in Older Adults Carol A. Miller, 2009. Now in its Fifth Edition this text provides a comprehensive and wellness oriented approach to the theory and practice of gerontologic nursing. Organized around the author's unique functional consequences theory of gerontologic nursing the book explores normal age related changes and risk factors that often interfere with optimal health and functioning to effectively identify and teach health promotion interventions. The author provides research based background information and a variety of practical assessment and intervention strategies for use in every clinical setting. Highlights of this edition include expanded coverage of evidence based practice more first person stories new chapters and clinical tools such as assessment tools recommended by the Hartford Institute of Geriatric Nursing.

Mental Health Care for Nurses Anthony Harrison, Chris Hart, 2009-02-26. Mental health is a significant factor in providing effective nursing care for patients in hospital and residential settings. Non mental health nursing staff often lack the confidence, knowledge and skills to effectively meet the mental health needs of patients who are experiencing psychiatric problems and psychological distress.

Mental Health Care for Nurses: Applying mental health skills in the general hospital provides a step by step guide which will help nurses identify these needs and address them in practice. The first part of Mental Health Care for Nurses: Applying mental health skills in the general hospital explores the context of mental health care in hospital and residential settings and provides a practical framework for assessment, planning and delivery of mental health care. The second part explores specific topics such as self harm and suicide prevention, caring for the patient displaying challenging behaviour, maternal and perinatal mental health problems, mental health problems associated with old age, mood disorders and illicit drug and alcohol dependence.
