Neonatal Nursing Doreen Crawford, Maryke Morris, 2013-11-11 There are many books on the care of the sick infant and some are excellent Most however are written with medicine in mind This book is written mainly by experienced neonatal nurses although some chapters have been written by the appropriate specialists It is intended primarily for nurses who look after sick infants and is not intended to be an exhaustive reference but to address some of the issues and concepts of neonatal care in the 1990s Nursing models are an important part of neonatal care in the 1990s but this book has not been written within this framework There are several reasons for this arguably no current model is ideally suited to neonates and the favouring of one particular model might restrict the book's applicability Also as contributors from other disciplines were invited to contribute we were anxious that these chapters did not stand out as oddities Additionally much neonatal care overlaps and were a framework to be used in its entirety for each nursing care chapter we felt that there could be some repetition conversely if a framework was fragmented in some chapters to cover specific areas of care we were concerned that the overall effect would have been bitty We felt that such treatment of nursing models would have been unjustifiable In this book the terms infant and baby are used interchangeably and where the term he is used the term she is equally appropriate

Developing Practical Skills for Nursing Children and Young People Alan Glasper, Marion Aylott, Cath Battrick, 2009-11-27 Clinical skills are essential to the practice of nursing and learning these skills requires a wealth of both factual knowledge and technical expertise Supplementing practical teaching Developing Practical Skills for Nursing Children and Young People is a comprehensive skills text that describes clinical skills in the style of a tutor teaching at Children's and Young People's Nursing in Practice Valerie Coleman, Lynda Smith, Maureen Bradshaw, 2006-09-28 This innovative textbook uses a problem based learning PBL approach to cover content that is most common to child branch nursing courses The evidence based PBL triggers are grounded in the reality of everyday contemporary nursing practice and readers are engaged in an active learning process in order to develop key skills for clinical practice and life long learning The book features individual chapters focusing on the different care environments that student nurses experience when caring for children young people and families within health and social care It is not necessary for readers to be undertaking a PBL structured course in order to use and benefit from this text
