Asdell's Patterns of Mammalian Reproduction Virginia Douglass Hayssen, Ari Van Tienhoven, Ans Van

Tienhoven, 1993 Since the appearance of the second edition of Sydney A Asdell's widely used Patterns of Mammalian Reproduction in 1964 the field of reproductive physiology has expanded dramatically Accordingly this revision adopts a different structure from previous editions substituting empirical delineations for physiological interpretations With the emphases now on a presentation of the published facts of mammalian reproduction it provides a thorough compilation of what is known about the basic reproductive biology of each of the 4300 mammalian species To gather information the authors examined more than 20 000 publications dating up to 1992 They used primary sources as much as possible supplementing them with English translations of Russian Finnish Chinese and Japanese journals The data are presented in taxonomic order Each familial account summarizes the pattern of reproduction for the family and provides lists of citations arranged by topic of the literature on the endocrinology reproductive anatomy and reproductive physiology of the family Following each account is a tabular listing of species specific data for neonatal mass and size weaning mass and size litter size age at sexual maturity estrous cycle length gestation length lactation length number of litters per year and seasonality of reproduction For each of these reproductive variables the range of data gleaned from the literature is given together with the source of each value listed Virginia Hayssen is Assistant Professor of Biology at Smith College Ari Van Tienhoven is Professor of Animal Physiology Emeritus at Cornell University Ans Van Tienhoven assisted in the compilation of data for the book

Reproduction in Mammals Virginia

Hayssen, Teri J. Orr, 2017-10-27 A fascinating look at the diverse reproductive strategies of numerous female mammals from hyenas to goats kangaroos to whales Newborn mammals can weigh as little as a dime or as much as a motorcycle Some receive milk for only a few days whereas others nurse for years Humans typically have only one baby at a time following nine months of pregnancy but other mammals have twenty or more young after only a few weeks in utero What causes this incredible reproductive diversity In Reproduction in Mammals Virginia Hayssen and Teri J Orr present readers with a fascinating examination of the varied reproductive strategies of a broad spectrum of mammals from marsupials to whales This unique book's comprehensive coverage gathers stories from many taxa into a single cohesive perspective that centers on the reproductive lives of females The authors shed light on a number of intriguing questions including do bigger moms have bigger babies do primates have longer pregnancies than other groups does habitat influence animals reproductive patterns do carnivores typically produce larger litters than prey species The book opens with the authors definition of what constitutes a female perspective and an examination of the evolution of reproduction in mammals It then outlines the typical individual mammalian female her genetics anatomy and physiology Taking a nuanced approach Hayssen and Orr describe the female reproductive cycle and explore female mammals interactions with males and offspring Readers will come away from this thought provoking book with an understanding of not only how reproduction fits into the lives of female mammals but also how biology has affected the enormously diverse reproductive patterns of the phenotypes we observe today Patterns of Human Growth Barry Bogin,1999-05-06 A revised edition of an established text on human growth and development from an anthropological and evolutionary perspective Patterns of Mammalian Reproduction. Second Edition Sydney Arthur ASDELL,1965 Physiological Mammalogy V2 William Mayer,2012-12-02 Physiological Mammalogy Volume II Mammalian Reactions to Stressful Environments deals with natural mammalian populations and their adaptations to stressful environments The book explores the physiology and morphology of reproduction and development water metabolism and hibernation This volume is organized into three chapters and begins with a discussion of aspects of reproduction and embryology that are purely mammalian emphasizing the mammalian reproductive organs and the evolutionary trends in such organs The next chapter focuses on water balance in desert rodents Inasmuch as reproduction is considerably affected by the environment it also can be considered a process modified by environmental stresses The final chapter examines hibernation as a mechanism for mammals to avoid periods of unfavorable environment This chapter also describes the poikilothermic state of mammalian populations during hibernation along with the consequences of reduced metabolic rate during hibernation Experimental animal biologists and those who work with mammals will find this book invaluable Using The Biological Literature Diane Schmidt,Elisabeth B. Davis,2001-12-06 Provides an in depth review of current print and electronic tools for research in numerous disciplines of biology including dictionaries and encyclopedias method guides handbooks on line directories and periodicals Directs readers to an associated Web page that maintains the URLs and annotations of all major Internet resources discussed in th Sex Determination, Differentiation and Intersexuality in Placental Mammals R. H. F. Hunter,1995-03-09 How do males become male and females become female And what are the consequences if the decision is not incisive Drawing upon interests in animal genetics and molecular biology the author endeavours to answer these difficult yet fascinating questions Originally published in 1995 this book describes the genetic determination of sex and examines how sexual organs are differentiated Using examples of intersexuality chimaeras and asymmetries the book describes the underlying molecular basis of sex determination and sexual differentiation and focuses on the critical role of the rate of embryonic development in these vital processes Male precocity is a recurrent theme as is the involvement of Sertoli cells and their secretion of anti M llerian hormone An invaluable book for reproductive
