Romance Of British Colonial Style:

Romance British Colonial Style Tricia Foley, 1995-11-01      The Romance of British Colonial Style Tricia Foley, 1993
The author of Having Tea and Linens and Lace turns to the enduring design traditions that accompanied British colonists around the world in the 19th century. The Romance of British Colonial Style includes ideas for updating British colonial style to suit today's way of living as well as a glossary, a bibliography, a filmography, and a source and travel directory. Full color photographs.      The Romance of Colonial Style Tricia Foley, Jeff McNamara, Catherine Calvert, 1993      Houses Far From Home Margaret Rodman Critchlow, 2001-03-01
The houses far from home featured in this book are located in Vanuatu, a chain of islands between Fiji and Australia in the southwest Pacific. Once known as the Anglo French Condominium of the New Hebrides, the islands were jointly administered by the British and French from 1906 to 1980. In this innovative and revealing study of a unique colonial project, Margaret Rodman tells the stories of these houses, exploring the profound differences of perspective, experience, and power that domestic spaces reveal and offering a novel look at the history of British colonialism in the Pacific. Each chapter has at its heart a house where readers can explore dimensions of race, gender, and power that domestic spaces reveal. Moving across time between different islands and actors between oral memories and archival documents, Margaret Rodman provides a richly documented, multi-sited ethnography of the social history of the New Hebrides.      World Film Locations: Hong Kong Linda Chiu-Han Lai, Kimburley Wing-yee Choi, 2014-05-14
The rapid development of Hong Kong has occasioned the demolition of buildings and landscapes of historic significance, but film acts as a repository for memories of lost places, vanished vistas, and material objects. Location shoots in Hong Kong have preserved many disappearing landmarks of the city, and the resulting films function as valuable and irreplaceable archives of the city's evolution. Far more than a simple collection of movie locations, this book delivers a rare glimpse into the history of film production practices in Hong Kong. The locations described here are often not the most iconic; rather, they are the anonymous streets and back alleys used by local film studios in the 1960s and 70s. They are the garden cafes with outdoor seating near the Chinese University of Hong Kong where moments of conflict in romantic comedies erupt and dissipate. They are the old Kai Tak Airport which channels rage and desire, and the tenement housing which splits citizens into greedy landlords and the diligent working class and embodies old-day communal values. Modern Hong Kong horror films draw their power from the material character of home-grown convenient stores, shopping arcades, and lost mansions found under modern high rises. As in the films of Wong Kar-wai and Johnnie To, readers will drift and dash through the streets of Central to the district's periphery almost recklessly, automatically, or for the sheer pleasure of roaming. The first of its kind in English, this book is more than a city guide to Hong Kong through the medium of film; it is a unique exploration of the relationship between location and place and genre innovations in Hong Kong cinema.      British Colonial Realism in Africa Deborah Shapple Spillman, 2012-05-04
What role do objects play in realist narratives as they move between societies and their different systems of value as commodities as charms as gifts as trophies or as curses This book explores how the struggle to represent objects in British colonial realism corresponded with historical struggles over the material world and its significance
