The Rome of Pope Paschal I Caroline Goodson,2010-06-03 A exploration of Paschal I s building campaign that illuminates the relationship between the material world and political power in medieval Rome

Perspectives on Public Space in Rome, from Antiquity to the Present Day Jan Gadeyne,2016-04-22 This volume provides readers interested in urban history with a collection of essays on the evolution of public space in that paradigmatic western city which is Rome Scholars specialized in different historical periods contributed chapters in order to find common themes which weave their way through one of the most complex urban histories of western civilization Divided into five chronological sections Antiquity Middle Ages Renaissance Baroque Modern and Contemporary the volume opens with the issue of how public space was defined in classical Roman law and how ancient city managers organized the maintenance of these spaces before moving on to explore how this legacy was redefined and reinterpreted during the Middle Ages The third group of essays examines how the imposition of papal order on feuding families during the Renaissance helped introduce a new urban plan which could satisfy both functional and symbolic needs The fourth section shows how modern Rome continued to express strong interest in the control and management of public space the definition of which was necessarily selective in this vastly extensive city The collection ends with an essay on the contemporary debate for revitalizing Rome s eastern periphery Through this long term chronological approach the volume offers a truly unique insight into the urban development of one of Europe s most important cities and concludes with a discuss of the challenges public space faces today after having served for so many centuries as a driving force in urban history

Augustine and the Trinity Lewis Ayres,2010-11-11 Augustine of Hippo 354 430 strongly influenced western theology but he has often been accused of over emphasizing the unity of God to the detriment of the Trinity In Augustine and the Trinity Lewis Ayres offers a new treatment of this important figure demonstrating how Augustine s writings offer one of the most sophisticated early theologies of the Trinity developed after the Council of Nicaea 325 Building on recent research Ayres argues that Augustine was influenced by a wide variety of earlier Latin Christian traditions which stressed the irreducibility of Father Son and Spirit Augustine combines these traditions with material from non Christian Neoplatonists in a very personal synthesis Ayres also argues that Augustine shaped a powerful account of Christian ascent toward understanding of as well as participation in the divine life one that begins in faith and models itself on Christ s humility

Whitewash and the New Aesthetic of the Protestant Reformation Victoria George,2013-12-31 This book is a reconsideration of the practice of whitewashing church interiors during the Protestant Reformation in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries It is the first detailed study of its kind which challenges the view that whitewash was always only a cheap coat of paint Victoria George pulls together several histories of the colour white from the biblical period to the present and ideas about the colour white in philosophy theology art and architecture from antiquity to the present She links them to case studies of the ways in which reformers Huldrych Zwingli and John Calvin thought about colour in a careful analysis of the role of colour thinking in their theological writings The social meanings embodied in the word whitewash as it entered the printed media in the 17th century is explored as part of a chapter on the history of whitewashing itself The long term symbolic and aesthetic implications of the practice of whitewashing are examined in the larger context of material culture in terms of their value as a metaphor for both the Reformed Protestant and the Catholic in opposition to them and for the uses to which whitewash has been put over time George proposes that the practice was not only visually transformative but held importance for religious aesthetics as an agent of change and for an aesthetics of minimalism generally especially evident in the twentieth and twenty first centuries Victoria George received an MFA from the Royal College of Art London an MA from The Architectural Association and a Ph D from Cambridge She has taught religion and the arts at the University of Richmond in Virginia
