Rooted In Place Family And Belonging In A Southern Black Community:

Rooted in Place William W. Falk, 2004 Throughout the 20th century African Americans from impoverished historically black counties left the South to pursue what they thought would be a better life in the North Some stayed and William W Falk tells the story of an extended family in the Georgia South Carolina Lowcountry Rooted in Place William W. Falk, 2004 Through oral history Falk sociology U of Maryland College Park tells the story of those who stayed behind as millions of African Americans left the South in the Great Migration for what they hoped would be a better life in the North Members of an extended family in the Georgia South Carolina lowlands talk about schooling kinship work religion race and their love of the place where their family has lived for generations The conversational ethnography argues that a link between race and place in the area helps explain African American loyalty to it for those who stayed put a numerical majority deep cultural roots and longstanding webs of social connection have outweighed racism and economic disadvantages Annotation 2004 Book News Inc Portland OR booknews com

Memphis and the Paradox of Place Wanda Rushing, 2009-09-01 Celebrated as the home of the blues and the birthplace of rock and roll Memphis Tennessee is where Elvis Presley B B King Johnny Cash and other musical legends got their starts It is also a place of conflict and tragedy the site of Martin Luther King Jr s 1968 assassination and a city typically marginalized by scholars and underestimated by its own residents Using this iconic southern city as a case study Wanda Rushing explores the significance of place in a globalizing age Challenging the view that globalization renders place generic or insignificant Rushing argues that cultural and economic distinctiveness persists in part because of global processes not in spite of them Rushing weaves her analysis into stories about the history and global impact of blues music the social and racial complexities of Cotton Carnival and the global rise of FedEx headquartered in Memphis She portrays Memphis as a site of cultural creativity and global industry a city whose traditions complex past and specific character have had an influence on culture worldwide

Raised Up Down Yonder Angela McMillan Howell, 2013-11-01 Raised Up Down Yonder attempts to shift focus away from why black youth are problematic to explore what their daily lives actually entail Howell travels to the small community of Hamilton Alabama to investigate what it is like for a young black person to grow up in the contemporary rural South What she finds is that the young people of Hamilton are neither idly passing their time in a stereotypically languid setting nor are they being corrupted by hip hop culture and the perils of the urban North as many pundits suggest Rather they are dynamic and diverse young people making their way through the structures that define the twenty first century South Told through the poignant stories of several high school students Raised Up Down Yonder reveals a group that is often rendered invisible in society Blended families football sagas crunk music expanding social networks and a nearby segregated prom are just a few of the fascinating juxtapositions spite of the existence of statistics and numerical data on various aspects of African American life including housing earnings assets unemployment household violence teen pregnancy and encounters with the criminal justice system social science literature on how racism affects the everyday interactions of African American families is limited How does racism come home to and affect African American families If a father in an African American family is denied employment on the basis of his race or a wife is demeaned at work by racist slurs how is their family life affected Given the lack of social science literature responding to these questions this volume turns to an alternative source in order to address them literature Engaging with novels written by African American authors it explores their rich depictions of African American family life showing how these can contribute to our sociological knowledge and making the case for the novel as an object and source of social research As such it will appeal to scholars and students of the sociology of the family race and ethnicity cultural studies and literature Commercial Poultry Production on Maryland's Lower Eastern Shore Solomon I.

Omo-Osagie, 2012-06-07 Commercial Poultry Production on Maryland's Lower Eastern Shore traces the beginnings and development of commercial poultry production in this very important region African Americans were mainly involved in poultry production on the labor supply side which was crucial to the expansion of the industry Commercial poultry production expanded through vertical integration acquisitions mergers and consolidations and became the dominant economic activity on the Lower Maryland Eastern Shore in the 1950s Throughout the years the industry has intermixed with public health and the environment These integrations were problematic on several fronts as the industry sought to maintain a much needed economic lifeline for the region and yet protect public health and ensure a sustainable environment at the same time In all commercial poultry production has continued to fuel the local economy of the Lower Maryland Eastern Shore since its inception in the 1930s

Something in These Hills John M. Coggeshall, 2022-09-07 What is the something in these hills that ties mountain families to family land in the southern Appalachians This ethnographic examination challenges contemporary theory and explores two interrelated themes the duality of the southern Appalachians as both a menacing and majestic landscape and the emotional relationship to family land characteristic of long term residents of these mountains To most outsiders the area conjures images of a beautiful yet dangerous place typified by the movie Deliverance To long term residents these mountains have a fundamental emotional hold so powerful that many mourn the sale or loss of family land as if it were a deceased relative How can the same geographical space be both Using a carefully crafted cultural lens John M Coggeshall explains how family land anthropomorphizes metaphorically becoming another member of kin groups He establishes that this emotional sense of place existed prior to recent land losses contrary to some contemporary scholars Utilizing the voices and perspectives of long term residents the book provides readers with a more fundamental understanding of the something in these hills that holds people in place

Liberia, South Carolina John M. Coggeshall, 2018-04-10 In 2007 while researching mountain culture in upstate South Carolina anthropologist John M Coggeshall stumbled upon the small community of Liberia in the Blue Ridge foothills There he met Mable Owens Clarke and her family the remaining members of a small African American community still living on land obtained immediately after the Civil War This intimate history tells the story of five generations of the Owens family and their friends and neighbors chronicling their struggles through slavery Reconstruction the Jim Crow era and the desegregation of the state Through hours of interviews with Mable and her relatives as well as friends and neighbors Coggeshall presents an ethnographic history that allows members of a largely ignored community to speak and record their own history for the first time This story sheds new light on the African American experience in Appalachia and in it Coggeshall documents the community's 150 year history of resistance to white oppression while offering a new way to understand the symbolic relationship between residents and the land they occupy tying together family memory and narratives to explain this connection
