Low Tech Education in a High Tech World Elizabeth L. Useem, 1986 Having run away because he is bored with school a young Egyptian finds himself involved with a gang of tomb robbers

Growth Policy in the Age of High Technology Jurgen Schmandt, Robert Wilson, 2018-03-29 Originally published in 1990 this book provides an authoritative and detailed account of the initiatives of US state governments with science and technology programs designed to foster economic growth Two key questions are posed Do state governments have policy instruments that are sufficiently powerful to affect the levels and growth rates of their regional economies and Are national and global economic forces so powerful that they render state action ineffective Several subsidiary themes are discussed in this context namely the most commonly used policy instruments the impacts on federalism and on governance and how well the universities and other educational institutions serve the economic activities imposed on them

The Emerging High-Tech Consumer Allan Reddy, 1997-07-16 Who are the consumers of high tech goods and services and what will their needs and preferences be as we move into the next century Allan Reddy and his team of marketing researchers and professionals lay out the essentials of a high tech consumer profile then dig into the implications this holds for developing successful marketing strategies They synthesize the important current research and its findings and by taking a multi specialist approach to their subject they bring a variety of interlocking and essential viewpoints to bear on it A must read for professional marketers and their academic colleagues and a useful overview for high tech industry strategists and planners Reddy divides the book into eleven chapters and three appendices Essays introduce the major ideas about the high tech consumer and look at this consumer in business to business marketing Other chapters look at the Telecommunications Act the Internet the importance of quality in high tech goods the measurement of high tech innovators the global consumer and distribution considerations The last chapter presents conclusions and implications for marketers while the appendices look at research techniques Internet marketing and just in time retailing The book has substantive references and author and subject indexes

Regional Advantage AnnaLee Saxenian, 1996-03-01 Why in the 90s did business flourish in California's Silicon Valley but decline along Route 128 in Massachusetts The answer Saxenian suggests has to do with the fact that Silicon Valley developed a decentralized but cooperative industrial system while Route 128 came to be dominated by independent self sufficient corporations

The Classroom Arsenal Douglas D. Noble, 2017-09-29 A quarter of a century after its initial publication The Classroom Arsenal remains pivotal in understanding and challenging the relentless promotion of technology to reform education This seemingly benign education technology juggernaut carries forward the momentum of military agendas in man machine systems detailed in the book Promoters continue to flood schools with technology and its still unfulfilled promise of cutting edge personalized learning Meanwhile they continue as well their insatiable pursuit of federal funding educational legitimacy corporate profits and access to student subjects and their accumulated learning data for product development Less understood though is a companion enterprise there from the start to replace teaching and learning in traditional classrooms by efficient automated systems that manage and monitor human cognition and learning for high performance systems from weapons systems to high tech corporations As education is moved imperceptibly away from its traditional humanistic aims and from the classroom itself the goal of this human engineering project the depersonalized accumulation of cognitive components for a 21st century militarized economy best befits the book's original title The Human Arsenal This ongoing military corporate sponsored enterprise continues to impact education today largely unnoticed One example is the federally funded Advanced Distributed Learning Initiative ADL which has been a major force behind the implementation of electronic learning systems now used in all Defense Department and federal employee training With the Defense Advanced Research Project Agency ARPA ADL is developing structures to capture students soft skills and the Army Research Laboratory is developing intelligent tutoring systems to enable instructional management of affect engagement and grit perseverance ADL through the Department of Defense has developed Experience API a learning technology that can monitor all student online and offline interactions and archive these in data lockers or learning record stores ADL has already impacted thousands of school districts through nonprofits such as IMS Global and Future Ready Schools part of an industry massively subsidized by high tech corporations and valued at 255 billion annually A 90 million Advanced Research Projects Agency for Education ARPA ED modeled after the military's ARPA has been proposed to fund dramatic breakthroughs in learning and teaching These include digital tutors as effective as personal tutors and with the Navy's Full Spectrum Learning project data collection tools for personalized education modeled after corporate data analysis that identifies consumer patterns and preferences ADL is just one example of how the military corporate ed tech enterprise is changing public education by hollowing it out into something that can be digitized data driven automated and monitored Its promoters envision education as children interacting with online learning systems where based on past performance algorithms will serve up what each student needs to know next Through this digital curriculum students create virtual educational identities at very young ages and learning devices are watching students as much as students are watching them Such is the education landscape presaged by The Classroom Arsenal a quarter century ago whose origins and trajectories need to be deeply understood now more than ever

Education in a Digital World Neil Selwyn, 2013 Drawing on a wealth of theoretical and empirical work Education in a Digital World tackles a number of pressing questions such as how are global trends in educational technology refracted through national policies and processes How exactly are educational technologies linked to issues of global economics and the fortunes of national and international economies To what extent are digital technologies implicated in the commercialisation marketization and commodification of education These questions and others are addressed throughout eight wide ranging chapters which consider topics such as the national policy strategies of countries across North and South America Europe and East Asia the educational technology portfolios of international organizations such as the United Nations and Microsoft as well as the role of education and technology in international development and the on going efforts to provide one laptop per child across low income regions and countries Through these examples Selwyn develops a detailed analysis of education technology and globalisation drawing together arguments and debates from various academic perspectives Written in a detailed but accessible manner this is an essential book for anyone wishing to gain a better understanding of the role of education and technology in contemporary globalised society A Subject Index to Current Literature Australian Public Affairs Information Service, Beyond College For All James E. Rosenbaum, 2001-11-29 In a society where everyone is supposed to go to college the problems facing high school graduates who do not continue their education are often forgotten Many cannot find jobs and those who do are often stuck in low wage dead end positions Meanwhile employers complain that high school graduates lack the necessary skills for today s workplace Beyond College for All focuses on this crisis in the American labor market Around the world author James E Rosenbaum finds employers view high school graduates as valuable workers Why not here Rosenbaum reports on new studies of the interaction between employers and high schools in the United States He concludes that each fails to communicate its needs to the other leading to a predictable array of problems for young people in the years after graduation High schools caught up in the college for all myth provide little job advice or preparation leading students to make unrealistic plans and hampering both students who do not go to college and those who start college but do not finish Employers say they care about academic skills but then do not consider grades when deciding whom to hire Faced with few incentives to achieve many students lapse into precisely the kinds of habits employers deplore doing as little as possible in high school and developing poor attitudes Rosenbaum contrasts the situation in the United States with that of two other industrialized nations Japan and Germany which have formal systems for aiding young people who are looking for employment Virtually all Japanese high school graduates obtain work and in Germany eighteen year olds routinely hold responsible jobs While the American system lacks such formal linkages Rosenbaum uncovers an encouraging hidden system that helps many high school graduates find work He shows that some American teachers particularly vocational teachers create informal networks with employers to guide students into the labor market Enterprising employers have figured out how to use these networks to meet their labor needs while students themselves can take steps to increase their ability to land desirable jobs Beyond College for All suggests new policies based on such practices Rosenbaum presents a compelling case that the problems faced by American high school graduates and employers can be solved if young people employers and high schools build upon existing informal networks to create formal paths for students to enter the world of work A Volume in the American Sociological Association s Rose Series in Sociology Screen Schooled Joe Clement, Matt Miles, 2017-10-01 Over the past decade educational instruction has become increasingly digitized as districts rush to dole out laptops and iPads to every student Yet the most important question Is this what is best for students is glossed over Veteran teachers Joe Clement and Matt Miles have seen firsthand how damaging technology overuse and misuse has been to our kids On a mission to educate and empower parents they show how screen saturation at home and school has created a wide range of cognitive and social deficits in our young people They lift the veil on what s really going on in schools teachers who are often powerless to curb cell phone distractions zoned out kids who act helpless and are unfocused unprepared and unsocial administrators who are influenced by questionable science sponsored by corporate technology purveyors They provide action steps parents can take to demand change and make a compelling case for simpler smarter more effective forms of teaching and learning World Economic Outlook, April 2006 International Monetary Fund.
