Charlotte Brontë Helene Moglen, 1984 The lives of literary figures have always provided a source of fascination the tragic life of Charlotte Brontë is no different In this interpretive critical biography Helene Moglen takes for granted earlier exhaustive studies done on Brontë to produce an analysis that incorporates not only the facts of her life but also their influence upon her works Through her study Moglen seeks to examine the two dimensions that are essential to any study of Brontë the life she lived and the life she created within the pages of fiction By examining the paradoxical personal tragedy and artistic fulfillment that made up Charlotte Brontë's life Helen Moglen shows the evolution of Brontë's feminism Through Brontë's growth Moglen then is able to explore explicitly formations of the modern female psyche Considered to be a major biography fusing together the making of literature and the formation of personality Moglen offers a new critical insight into Brontë's struggle for self definition and how it can be reflected through the lives of readers more than a century later

What It Means to Be Human (Colour Edition) Taro Maeyashiki, 2025-09-21 This book What It Means to Be Human Moral and Existential Questions in British and American Literature is a selective anthology of academic articles exploring the wide and complex field of American and British literature from the 17th to the 21st century their moral psychological philosophical and sociological implications and closer deeper reading of a rich variety of texts All chapters engage the reader in a conversation with particular works that throw light on both their own time and place and the issues that are always woven through the fabric of human life The spiritual despair of Melville s Captain Ahab the moral uncertainty of Twain s Huck Finn the metaphysical skepticism of The Mysterious Stranger the audacity of Charlotte Bront s proclamation of female empowerment Ian McEwan s painful reflection on guilt and the impossibility of redemption these essays speak to the contradictions discomfort and desire both in individuals and in the broader community that literature reveals and engages with Even more it is the study of connections the collection makes between time and genre Thus it is easy to see how Melville s metaphysical preoccupations were countered by Thoreau s gentle yearning for simplicity Salinger s alienation of youth could be read against Hawthorne s tragic dark allegories of faith and disenchantment The psychological disintegration of The Yellow Wallpaper and the absurdity of existence in The Sun Also Rises are cited in the stories of spiritual revolt and social criticism The Fool s ironic insight in Shakespeare s King Lear serves as a connotative precursor for the post modernist fragmentation of the quest for truth as it emerges in the self exploring wanderings of Holden Caulfield The common thread that links this wide ranging exploration of literary questions is the sense that at its best literature does not just mirror reality it ruptures relations displaces certainties and wrestles us from complacency in our understanding of justice love freedom and the precarious scaffolding of the self These fictions never yield clear answers or definitive truths rather they leave us in a state of discomfort and uncertainty amid contradiction and moral ambiguity Moreover most importantly they beckon us always to hear the thoughts of those seated at the intersection of art and ethics I hope this volume will be a space for continued thought and dialogue and a source of inspiration for the readers to return to the literary works to interrogate resist remember and humanize

When I want to know the real rock bottom truth about what happens all the time in this doctoring life, what happens to us and to the folks who bring us their hearts and worries to be heard, that's when I turn every time to the novelists, the playwrights, the poets, the essayists who have given us the sights and sounds, the feel of all that goes on minute by minute. What Tolstoy and Chekhov knew we need to know for ourselves, for our own sakes, as we live out our medical lives. William Carlos Williams: The most fundamental of all consulting skills is genuine curiosity about other people, the constant urge to wonder. Why are they as they are? We should open our minds to the life of the imagination, not just for its entertainment value but for the mindset of curiosity it engenders in us. Such books as John Salinsky describes in this and his previous volume combine powerful opportunities for our own professional growth with pleasure and recreation too. Roger Neighbour in his Foreword: This carefully assembled, wonderfully telling book is a companion for sure, a lasting and most helpful one for the medical travelling that awaits us. Robert Coles in his Foreword: Medicine and Literature John Salinsky, 2002. Following the success of the first volume, volume 2 describes more classic novels, short stories, plays, and poems in a detailed and user-friendly style. It is a refreshing book that will give doctors a new perspective on the doctor-patient relationship. Reading Victorian Schoolrooms Elizabeth Gargano, 2013-10-31. Reading Victorian Schoolrooms examines the numerous schoolroom scenes in nineteenth-century novels during the fraught era of the Victorian education debates. As Gargano argues, the fiction of mainstream and children's writers such as Dickens, Brontë, and Carroll reflected widespread Victorian anxieties about the rapid institutionalization of education and the shrinking realm of domestic instruction. As schools increasingly mapped out a schema of time, schedules, standardized grades or forms, separate disciplines, and hierarchical architectural spaces, childhood development also came to be seen as regularized and standardized according to clear developmental categories. Yet Dickens, Brontë, and others did not simply critique or satirize the standardization of school experience. Instead, most portrayed the schoolroom as an unstable site incorporating both institutional and domestic space. Drawing on the bildungsroman's traditional celebration of an individualized experiential education, numerous novels of school life strove to present the novel itself as a form of domestic education in contrast to the rigors of institutional instruction. By positioning the novel as a form of domestic education currently under attack, these novelists sought to affirm its value as a form of protest within an increasingly institutionalized society. The figure of the child as an emblem of beleaguered innocence thus became central to the Victorian fictive project. Lowood School of Arts Records, 1921. Records of the Lowood School of Arts.
