Lu Shengzhong:

First encounter, 2000 ARMY 05 Trinh The Vien, 2025-08-13 ARMY 05 Shang Shuqing opened her mouth and smiled. It's fine if the Taoist doesn't mind, then let me do this in the future. Niu Youdao waved his hand: how could he order someone else's princess around like a maid? Shang Lu County, after a storm of cleansing, quickly recovered. Some families were happy, some were sad. Each knew for themselves the common people had no way to resist the general situation; they could only drift like water flowing. At the beginning of the street, there was a four-treasure stationery store called Jing Mo Xian. This was the best stationery store in the county; the pens, ink, paper, and inkstones in the store were all of the best quality in the county. Jing Mo Xian looked like it was still operating as usual. The counter had been replaced by a manager; the original shopkeeper was affected by the recent storm, so he said he had to avoid the storm. This was no exception: quite a few shop owners saw a few shops being confiscated and seemed to have an attitude of observing, avoiding observation. Folk Art and Modern Culture in Republican China Felicity Lufkin, 2016-01-21 Folk art is now widely recognized as an integral part of the modern Chinese cultural heritage, but in the early twentieth century, awareness of folk art as a distinct category in the visual arts was new. Internationally, intellectuals in different countries used folk arts to affirm national identity and cultural continuity in the midst of the changes of the modern era. In China, artists, critics, and educators likewise saw folk art as a potentially valuable resource; perhaps it could be a fresh source of cultural inspiration and energy, representing the authentic voice of the people in contrast to what could be seen as the limited and elitist classical tradition. At the same time, many Chinese intellectuals also saw folk art as a problem; they believed that folk art, as it was promoted, superstitious and backward ideas that were incompatible with modernization and progress. In either case, folk art was too important to be left in the hands of the folk. Educated artists and researchers felt a responsibility to intervene to reform folk art and create new popular art forms that would better serve the needs of the modern nation. In the early 1930s, folk art began to figure in the debates on the social role of art and artists that were waged in the pages of the Chinese press. The first major exhibition of folk art was held in Hangzhou, and the new print movement claimed the print as a popular artistic medium, while for the most part declaring its distance from contemporary folk printmaking practices. During the war against Japan, from 1937 to 1945, educated artists deployed imagery and styles drawn from folk art in morale-boosting propaganda images but worried that this work fell short of true artistic accomplishment and pandering to outmoded tastes. The questions raised in interaction with folk art during this pivotal period—questions about heritage, about the social position of art, and the exercise of cultural authority—continue to resonate into the present day. Contemporary Chinese Visual Culture , 陈鹤良·陈鹤良 Christophe Mao,2004 The Chinese folk art of paper cutting is ancient but Lu Shengzhong s artistic practice which employs it is thoroughly modern His signature Little Red Figure a slightly devious looking splayed personage is as distinctive as a Haring graffiti man and in Lu s installations just as ubiquitous The artist fills a room with the individually replicated form which seems at once both whimsical and frightening This catalogue of an exhibition at Chambers Fine Art in New York is a work of art itself featuring a red paper cover embossed with scissors and one of the red figures Inside studio shots reveal Lu Shengzhong s involved work process and pages from his cutout books are reproduced This bridge between ancient and contemporary Chinese art is essential for fans of both Slash David Revere McFadden,2009-12 Accompanies an exhibition at the Museum of Arts Design New York 7 October 2009 10 January 2010
