It examines some of the challenges that need to be addressed across the teaching profession. The chapters have been developed by the contributors from a set of keynote presentations and refereed papers given at the 2005 International Study Association for Teachers and Teaching ISATT Conference in Sydney Australia. The conference was attended by 190 delegates from a diverse range of countries: Australia Belgium Bosnia Canada China Czech Republic Denmark Finland Germany Hong Kong Iceland India Jamaica Malaysia Marshall Islands Netherlands New Zealand Pakistan Philippines Poland Portugal Slovenia South Africa Sweden Taiwan Turkey United Kingdom United States and the West Indies. A distinctive feature of the conference was the range of education systems policies teacher education programs school districts classrooms teachers and students whose views were argued for and critiqued. This book has been prepared so that it reflects that breadth of contexts and issues. The book is presented in four sections each emphasising a unique dimension of what is involved in making a difference. The authors offer a range of viewpoints from their different cultural historical and professional contexts. While each section has a special emphasis the major themes of heeding challenges and making a difference are woven into all the sections. The chapters in this book provide readers with frameworks evidence and examples addressing challenges and making a difference. Evidence is presented as to how realities have been transformed for students teachers and teacher educators as well as for the profession itself. We hope that your engagement with the authors and material in this ISATT forum will motivate you to transform realities in your own professional worlds. own is often not powerful enough to have a significant impact on how a life is actually lived Many clinicians and therapists have turned toward emotional experience within and outside the treatment setting as a resource How can the immense power of lived emotional experience be harnessed in the service of helping patients live richer more satisfying lives Most patients come into treatment because they are too anxious or depressed or don't seem to feel alive enough Something is wrong with what they feel or don't feel Given that the emotions operate as a system with the intensity of each affecting the level of all the others it makes sense that it would be an emotional experience that would have enough power to change what we feel But ironically the wider culture and even psychoanalysts seem to favor solutions that aim to mute emotionality rather than relying on one emotion to modify another We turn to pharmaceutical cognitive or behavioral change to make a difference in how life feels Because we are afraid of emotional intensity we cut off our most powerful source of regulation In clear jargon free prose that utilizes both clinical vignettes and excerpts from poetry art and literature Buechler explores how the power to feel can become the power to change Through an active empathic engagement with the patient and an awareness of the healing potential inherent in each of our fundamental emotions the clinician can make a substantial difference in the patient's capacity to embrace life
