Pages from the Book of the Sun Niyi Osundare, 2002 This long awaited collection brings together some of the best poems by one of Africa's most important poets. Covering nearly two decades it represents a substantial part of the poet's new writing as well as poems from his early works. With remarkable vigour and consistency Osundare addresses major social and aesthetic issues of our time such as justice, freedom, war, racism, the environment, art and the process of writing poetry, all of which are treated as urgent and engaging themes in a variety of delightful and grippingly lyrical styles. Teaching the Art of Poetry Baron Wormser, A. David Cappella, 1999-12 Written with classroom teachers in mind, this book is a guide to the art of poetry, a focused approach to how to teach poetry. It focuses on two main issues: how poetry is defined/perceived/taught and how it can become more integrated into students' lives. The Cambridge Companion to Postcolonial Poetry Jahan Ramazani, 2017-02-27 The Cambridge Companion to Postcolonial Poetry is the first collection of essays to explore postcolonial poetry through regional, historical, political, formal, textual, gender and comparative approaches. The essays encompass a broad range of English speakers from the Caribbean, Africa, South Asia and the Pacific Islands, the former settler colonies such as Canada, Australia and New Zealand, especially non-Europeans, Ireland, Britain's oldest colony and postcolonial Britain itself, particularly black and Asian immigrants and their descendants. The comparative essays analyze poetry from across the postcolonial anglophone world in relation to postcolonialism and modernism, fixed and free forms, experimentation, oral performance and creole languages, protest poetry, the poetic mapping of urban and rural spaces, poetic embodiments of sexuality and gender, poetry and publishing history, and poetry's response to and reimagining of globalization. Strengthening the place of poetry in postcolonial studies, this Companion also contributes to the globalization of poetry studies. West African Literatures Stephanie Newell, 2006-06-08 The Oxford Studies in Postcolonial Literatures series, general editor Elleke Boehmer, offers stimulating and accessible introductions to definitive topics and key genres and regions within the rapidly diversifying field of postcolonial literary studies in English. This study of West African literatures interweaves the analysis of fiction, drama and poetry with an exploration of the broader political, cultural and intellectual contexts within which West African writers work. Anglophone literatures form the central focus of the book, with comparative comments on vernacular literature, francophone writing and oral literatures, and detailed discussion of selected francophone texts in translation. e.g. Senghor, Tadjou Beyala, B. Sembene. Moving from a discussion of nationalist and anti-colonial writing in the period before independence towards the more experimental writings of contemporary authors such as Vronique Tadjou, Ivory Coast, Syl Cheney Coker, Sierra Leone and Kojo Laing, Ghana, the book constantly relates texts to the social and political history of West Africa. Canonical internationally well-known writers such as Chinua Achebe and Wole Soyinka are positioned in relation to the literary cultures and debates which surrounded them when they first produced their seminal texts; the discussions and disagreements which have grown up around their work in subsequent decades are also considered. The work of new and lesser known writers is also considered including Niyi Osundare Nigeria and Kofi Anyidoho Ghana In order to convey a sense of the rich and complex societies that are clustered beneath the umbrella term postcolonial emphasis is placed on West Africa's diverse oral and popular cultures and the ways in which local intellectuals and readers have responded to the most prominent authors through the aesthetic frameworks generated by these forms

Metaphor and the Slave Trade in West African Literature Laura T. Murphy, 2012-04-02 Metaphor and the Slave Trade provides compelling evidence of the hidden but unmistakable traces of the transatlantic slave trade that persist in West African discourse Through an examination of metaphors that describe the trauma loss and suffering associated with the commerce in human lives this book shows how the horrors of slavery are communicated from generation to generation Laura T Murphy's insightful new readings of canonical West African fiction autobiography drama and poetry explore the relationship between memory and metaphor and emphasize how repressed or otherwise marginalized memories can be transmitted through images tropes rumors and fears By analyzing the unique codes through which West Africans have represented the slave trade this work foregrounds African literary contributions to Black Atlantic discourse and draws attention to the archive that metaphor unlocks for scholars of all disciplines and fields of study
