Painting Of John Ward:

John Ward, 1987 The Paintings of John Ward John Ward, 2006 This text showcases the art of John Ward bringing together many of the artist's best works. It includes the artist's famous portraits of the Princess of Wales and the Princess Royal. The commentary puts the plates into context with a witty account of his career and the story behind each painting.

John Ward, Recent Paintings Galerie Dresdnere (Toronto, Ont.), John Ward, 1982 John Ward Jeremy Maas, Royal Museum (Canterbury), 1987 John Ward, John Ward John Ward, Gary Ross, Kitchener-Waterloo Art Gallery, Rodman Hall Arts Centre, 1993 Entering Nature represents a selection of artist John Ward's latest works paintings that move away from the strict realism of his early career towards a spiritual emotional subjective rendering of the natural world. In these brilliant hard edged depictions of leaves in the forest he has not abandoned the technical strengths of his early years but built on them. His use of vivid colours and of the contrasts between black and white convey a duality both foreboding of death and the sense of hope of light of energy. This catalogue of an exhibition of Ward's work at the Kitchener Waterloo Art Gallery shows us the evolution of an artist. The works included in their exploration of light and colour challenge the limits of technique and imagery. Yet technical knowledge enhances the feeling to convey the artist's awe of the natural world. Gary Ross in a series of conversations with Ward talked with the artist about how Ward works what his work is about and his development from mastery of technique to painter as medium one who conveys feeling emotion and experience through his art. They discussed art dealers and exhibits the place of art criticism and the artist's perception of his role in relation to all of these.
