Reconstructing Past Monastic Life: Volume 2: Diet, Landscape and Monastic Space Lluís Lloveras, Carme Rissech, Jordi Nadal, Philip Banks, 2025-07-31 Explores the organization of diet food practices water management and spatial use within historical monastic complexes and landscapes Monasticism is a form of religious life in which participants renounce worldly activities to dedicate themselves primarily to spiritual matters living in small communities subject to a set of rules and isolated from the secular world Christian monasticism which originated at the end of the 3rd century in Egypt and North Africa spread to different parts of Europe in the 6th century However it was not until the Middle Ages that monastic communities became one of the most powerful institutions in Europe Monasteries and convents played a very important role not only as centers of spirituality but also as focal points of economic technological and cultural activity This multiplicity of activities carried out alongside their religious social and political roles make monasteries spaces that can be studied from very different perspectives and that unfailingly provide essential information about our history This second of two titles originates from an international conference that took place in Barcelona in January 2024 which sought to examine different aspects related to monastic life in the past and to promote and disseminate the results obtained in the latest studies undertaken within the framework of monastic complexes and their environments These include contributions and multidisciplinary studies from archaeological bioanthropological and or documentary perspectives Specialists from different disciplines present developments on the topic of monasticism from different fields of study such as zooarchaeology bioanthropology palaeopathology archaeology history documentary disciplines archives cultural heritage etc Volume 2 focuses on diet food practices water management and the organization and use of space within monastic complexes and landscapes

Des sommets andins la forêt amazonienne et jusqu'aux Galapagos la quatrième zone de forte biodiversité mondiale abrite une faune et une flore uniques au monde. Les photos exceptionnelles présentes dans cet ouvrage en témoignent : les portraits sur le vif d'un condor ou d'un tapir des Andes, d'un renard remontant la pente enneigée d'un volcan, d'un iguane marin sur la plage ou encore d'une orchidée dans la forêt de nuages sont autant d'instantanés magiques capturés au cœur des écosystèmes. Face à la beauté saisissante de ces images, le lecteur guidé par un texte accessible, précis et fondé sur une profonde connaissance scientifique est amené à mieux comprendre le pourquoi d'une telle diversité et la multiplicité des interactions à l'origine du fonctionnement des écosystèmes. Mieux comprendre pour mieux protéger en utilisant la photographie comme un véritable outil visuel. Natura Maxima est un formidable livre d'usage au service de la biodiversité.
