Green infrastructure has emerged as a tool to link considerations of the planning and design process to examine the impact urban nature can have at a global and a local scale. In the Eye of the Storm Sharon G. Feldman, 2009

Barcelona the cultural epicenter of Catalunya is presently experiencing the most dynamic and polemical period in its modern theater history. It is the commanding hub of an energetic theater scene that in recent years has witnessed an exuberant outpouring of new dramatists a steady crescendo in theater attendance and a continual increase in the international presence of Catalan directors playwrights and companies. Barcelona's post Olympic cultural landscape moreover comprises several architecturally striking theater projects. The diversity of opportunities to stage plays in Catalan at an assortment of city spaces is unprecedented ranging in variety from commercial locales to publicly funded stages to experimental alternative venues. Since its origins in the nineteenth century modern Catalan drama has frequently exhibited a cosmopolitan and even transnational impulse engaging in an artistic dialogue with international theater traditions of both past and present and forging its identity vis a vis its intercultural associations. The path along which the contemporary Catalan theater scene has struggled to recover and reconstitute the professional legitimacy and visibility that it lost during the Franco dictatorship has been a complex process never lacking in melodramatic excess witnessed both on and off the stage. The Barcelona stage throughout its contemporary evolution has been immersed in a stormy climate whose relentlessly frenetic atmospheric activity at times may impede one from acquiring the distance necessary to see beyond the hurricane. System of Open Spaces Raquel Tardín, 2012-08-11 In the current panorama of urban growth and planning in many urban territories of western societies open spaces are residual spaces of urban occupation or are reserved for eventual occupation Open spaces have been viewed in this manner in the earlier stages of the compact city and especially now in a time of the dispersed territories characterized by discontinuity heterogeneity and fragmentation The disciplinary perspectives of ecology geology landscape architecture and urbanism but also public opinion have for some time promoted the conservation and protection of the most valuable natural spaces and efforts have been made to remove such spaces from the real estate market However such positions usually radical are insufficient for territorial equilibrium and inevitably lead to the progressive disappearance of valuable natural spaces
