

Leaving the Hospital After Your Heart Attack: What you need to know

Understanding what you need to do to recover may lower your chances of coming back to the hospital.

BEFORE YOU LEAVE THE HOSPITAL

With your health care team, check which new medicines you are taking. Many will lower your risk for a heart attack or stroke.

- ☐ Aspirin and prescription antiplatelet medicines each work differently to stop dangerous blood clots from forming.

- ☐ Medicines to lower cholesterol
 - ☐ Statins _____
 - ☐ Ezetimibe _____
 - ☐ PCSK9 inhibitors _____
 - ☐ Bempedoic acid _____
- ☐ Medicines to lower triglycerides
 - ☐ Prescription Omega-3 _____
 - ☐ Fibrates _____
- ☐ Blood pressure medicines help lower blood pressure and help your heart recover

- ☐ Nitroglycerin helps relieve chest pain or pressure by improving blood flow

- ☐ Diabetes medicines help lower your blood sugar

- ☐ Other medicines specific to your care

It is important to take all your medicines. Talk to your health care provider before you start, stop or change medicines or supplements.

Keep an up-to-date list of all your medicines. Write them down or use a health app or notes section on your smart phone. List name, dose, when and how to take them.

- With your care team, review your list of home medicines and supplements with the list from the hospital.
- If you will be taking an injection, make sure you have been given instructions and a demonstration.

Work with your health care team to:

- a. Fill your prescriptions before you go home, if possible.
- b. Find out if your medicines need to be approved by your insurance company.
- c. Schedule follow-up visits with your health care providers.
- d. Find out about any limits to your activities, such as lifting, bathing, walking, driving, having sex, and exercise.
