Paule Marshall Interview With Kay Bonetti:

City of Islands Tammy L. Brown, 2015-09-02 Tammy L. Brown uses the life stories of Caribbean intellectuals as windows into the dynamic history of immigration to New York and the long battle for racial equality in modern America. The majority of the 150,000 black immigrants who arrived in the United States during the first wave of Caribbean immigration to New York hailed from the English-speaking Caribbean, mainly Jamaica, Barbados, and Trinidad. Arriving at the height of the Industrial Revolution and a new era in black culture and progress, these black immigrants dreamed of a more prosperous future. However, northern-style Jim Crow hindered their upward social mobility. In response, Caribbean intellectuals delivered speeches and sermons, wrote poetry and novels, and created performance art pieces challenging the racism that impeded their success. Brown traces the influences of religion as revealed at Unitarian minister Ethelred Brown's Harlem Community Church and in Richard B. Moore's fiery speeches on Harlem street corners during the age of the New Negro. She investigates the role of performance art and Pearl Primus's declaration that dance is a weapon for social change during the long civil rights movement. Shirley Chisholm's advocacy for women and all working-class Americans in the House of Representatives and as a presidential candidate during the peak of the Feminist Movement moves the book into more overt politics. Novelist Paule Marshall's insistence that black immigrant women be seen and heard in the realm of American Arts and Letters at the advent of multiculturalism reveals the power of literature. The wide-ranging styles of Caribbean campaigns for social justice reflect the expansive imaginations and individual life stories of each intellectual. Brown studies, in addition to deepening our understanding of the long battle for racial equality in America, these life stories reveal the powerful interplay between personal and public politics. American Black Women in the Arts and Social Sciences; A Bibliographic Survey Ora Williams, 1994-01-01 Calls attention to the many contributions African American women have made to American and world culture. Includes pictures of artists, art works, and authors. Black Time and the Aesthetic Possibility of Objects Daphne Lamothe, 2024-01-09 The decades following the civil rights and decolonization movements of the sixties and seventies, termed the post-soul era, created new ways to understand the aesthetics of global racial representation. Daphne Lamothe shows that, beginning around 1980 and continuing to the present day, Black literature, art, and music resisted the pull of singular and universal notions of racial identity. Developing the idea of Black aesthetic time, a multipronged theoretical concept that analyzes the ways race and time collide in the process of cultural production, she assesses Black fiction, poetry, and visual and musical texts by Paule Marshall, Zadie Smith, Tracy K. Smith, Dionne Brand, Toyin Ojih Odutola, and Stromae, among others. Lamothe asks how our understanding of Blackness might expand upon viewing racial representation without borders or to use her concept from the permeable, supple place of Black aesthetic time. Lamothe purposefully focuses on texts told from the vantage point of immigrants, migrants, and city dwellers to conceptualize Blackness as a global phenomenon without assuming the universality or homogeneity of racialized experience. In this new way to analyze Black global art, Lamothe foregrounds migratory subjects poised on thresholds between not only old and new worlds but old and new selves

Women's Work Courtney Thorsson, 2013-06-17 In Women's Work Courtney Thorsson reconsiders the gender genre and geography of African American nationalism as she explores the aesthetic history of African American writing by women Building on and departing from the Black Arts Movement the literary fiction of such writers as Toni Cade Bambara Paule Marshall Gloria Naylor Ntozake Shange and Toni Morrison employs a cultural nationalism practiced by their characters as women's work that defines a distinct contemporary literary movement demanding attention to the continued relevance of nation in post Black Arts writing Identifying five forms of women's work as organizing dancing mapping cooking and inscribing Thorsson shows how these writers reclaimed and revised cultural nationalism to hail African America Mother Imagery in the Novels of Afro-Caribbean Women Simone A. James Alexander, 2001 Focusing on specific texts by Jamaica Kincaid Maryse Conde and Paule Marshall this study explores the intricate trichotomous relationship between the mother biological or surrogate the motherlands Africa and the Caribbean and the mothercountry represented by England France and or North America The mother daughter relationships in the works discussed address the complex conflicting notions of motherhood that exist within this trichotomy Although mothering is usually socialized as a welcoming nurturing notion Alexander argues that alongside this nurturing notion there exists much conflict Specifically she argues that the mother daughter relationship plagued with ambivalence is often further conflicted by colonialism or colonial intervention from the other the colonial mothercountry Mother Imagery in the Novels of Afro Caribbean Women offers an overview of Caribbean women s writings from the 1990s focusing on the personal relationships these three authors have had with their mothers and or motherlands to highlight links despite social cultural geographical and political differences among Afro Caribbean women and their writings Alexander traces acts of resistance which facilitate the re writing righting of the literary canon and the conception of a newly created genre and a womanist tradition through fictional narratives with autobiographical components

Book Jacket Words on Cassette, 2002 R R Bowker Publishing, 2002 Middle Passages and the Healing Place of History Elizabeth Brown-Guillory, 2006 Middle Passages and the Healing Place of History Migration and Identity in Black Women s Literature brings together a series of essays addressing black women s fragmented identities and quests for wholeness The individual essays concern culturally specific experiences of blacks in select African countries England the Caribbean the United States and Canada They examine identity struggles by establishing the Middle Passage as the first site of identity rupture and the subsequent break from cultural and historical moorings In most cases the authors themselves have migrated from their places of origin to new spaces that present challenges Their narratives replicate the displacement engendered by their own experiences of living with the complexities of diasporic existence Their female characters many of whom participate in multiple border crossings work to define themselves within a hostile environment In nearly every essay the female characters struggle against multiple yokes of oppression giving voice to what it means to be black female poor old and alone The subjects migrations and journeys are analyzed as attempts to heal the displacement both physical and psychological that results from dislocation and relocation from the homeland imagined variously as Africa This volume reveals that black women across the globe share a common ground fraught with struggles but the narratives bear out that these women are not easily divided and that they stand upon each other s shoulders dispensing healing balms Black women s history and herstory commingle the trauma that ensued when Africans were loaded onto ships in chains continues to haunt black women and men too wherever they find themselves in this present moment of the Diaspora Books Out Loud , 2007
