

The background of the cover is a photograph of a stone bridge, likely the Clifton Suspension Bridge in Bristol, England. The bridge is made of light-colored stone and has a large, dark, arched opening in the center. A large, leafy tree stands behind the bridge, and the river flows beneath it. The sky is a clear, pale blue.

God, Time, and the Incarnation Richard A. Holland Jr., 2012-02-20 The dominant view among Christian theologians and philosophers is that God is timeless that he exists outside of time in an atemporal eternity In God Time and the Incarnation Richard Holland offers a critical evaluation of this traditional view in light of the most central doctrine of Christianity the Incarnation of Christ Holland reviews the history of this controversy highlighting the various theological problems for which atemporal models have been offered as a solution He asserts the central importance of the Incarnation for Christian theology and evaluates several atemporal models in light of this doctrine Finally he suggests that the traditional atemporal view is not compatible with a robust and orthodox view of the Incarnation This book rejects the traditional atemporal view of God's relationship to time and argues based on the Incarnation that God experiences temporal sequence in his existence
