the pioneering work in word associations among French and English learners this book distinguishes itself by using lexical availability tests to explore word associations and networks in the mental lexicon of English or Spanish learners in classroom contexts. Notably it offers lexical data from children and adolescents learning English in primary or secondary schools as well as Spanish learners in high school and university settings filling a gap in research on younger learners and languages other than English. The book addresses the need for empirical data on the mental lexicon of English or Spanish learners particularly in primary or secondary classrooms a scarcely investigated educational context.

English and Globalization Kwok-kan Tam, Timothy Weiss, 2004 This book offers a groundbreaking perspective on the political cultural and pedagogical issues of English in the age of globalization. Additionally it addresses theoretical concepts as they relate to language and globalization while simultaneously creating new perspectives on the issues. The fifteen papers that make up this collection present valuable information about the English language in Hong Kong and China. Including pioneering works that examine how language functions as a mediating agent in the global cultural formation and vice versa.

Why did traditional pronunciation habits and criteria of acceptability change radically during the 20th century when even the BBC world service got a new sound? How to cope with the impacts of this change? What is the actual standard? Speech accent is not only a regional but also a social marker. Ingrid Wotschke discusses educated pronunciation in its changing social contexts supported by numerous speech samples and illustrations. Besides she presents the alternative model of current Educated English. This book is written for scholars and students of English and for anyone else interested in English language and culture.
