Roland Dorgelès's Les Croix de bois It explores through these works and less well known but equally popular patriotic novels of the period the effect that experiencing war has upon the writer's understanding of the world arguing that in their depiction of conflict these writers demonstrate a decidedly complex and modernist understanding of humanity's place in the world In particular the author examines the French combat novel's evocation of a world where a sense of the Absurd vies with the novelist's desire to re-impose order through a particular political understanding of the Great War itself be it in the form of revolutionary socialism French nationalism or humanism In this way this volume contends ideology becomes a force for responding to and countering the sense of contingency that characterises the human experience of combat It will be of interest to scholars of twentieth century French fiction and thought
