

A photograph of two women in a vineyard. An older woman with short white hair, wearing a white sleeveless top, is reaching up to pick a fruit from a vine. A younger woman with long brown hair, also in a white sleeveless top, is holding a fruit and looking down at it. They are both smiling. The background shows green foliage and a clear sky.

Dawson, Steven J. Jackson, 2025-09-30 This edited collection brings together the work of key scholars to explore the various dimensions, themes and controversies of the contested terrain of CrossFit from a range of perspectives. CrossFit has emerged as a prominent fixture across the global sporting and cultural landscape. Developed initially as an exercise programme to promote functional fitness, CrossFit has undergone a rapid metamorphosis into a global, multi-dimensional, multi-million-dollar industry. Branded as the sport of fitness, it is part sport, part fitness, but also part exercise, military regime, with religious underpinnings. Perhaps best known for its unconventional approach to fitness that combines high-intensity exercises with functional fitness performed in a group setting, CrossFit has surpassed the growth of well-known fitness franchises. It boasts approximately 15,000 affiliates worldwide, while by comparison, the world's largest gym franchise, Anytime Fitness, has around 4,500 franchises globally. Beyond its comprehensive fitness regime and global appeal, CrossFit claims to offer a supportive community which aims to ensure that people exercise together as a group, versus rather than as isolated individuals in a group context, or what has been referred to as 'together alone'. The tight-knit, almost insular nature of this community, as well as some of its more extreme practices, have led followers and detractors alike to characterise CrossFit as a cult. Yet despite its exalted position within the popular physical culture imaginary, critical scholarly analysis of CrossFit has only recently emerged. This book will appeal to students of sociology, media studies, sport studies, and/or gender studies.
