Age New York Public Library, 1995. Beyond the Revolution William H. Goetzmann, 2009-02-24 From 1776 when Citizen Tom Paine declared "The birthday of a new world is at hand," America was unique in world history: a nation suffused with the spirit of explorers, constantly replenished by immigrants and informed by a continual influx of foreign ideas, it was the world's first truly cosmopolitan civilization. In Beyond the Revolution, Pulitzer Prize-winning historian William H. Goetzmann tells the story of America's greatest thinkers and creators from Paine and Jefferson to Melville and William James, showing how they built upon and battled one another's ideas in the critical years between 1776 and 1900. An unprecedented work of intellectual history by a master historian, this book will be essential reading for anyone interested in the origins of our national culture.

The Outline of Knowledge: Travel James Albert Richards, 1924 The British Library Companion to Maps and Mapmaking Rebecca Stefoff, 1995 This guide to maps and map making combines dictionary and encyclopaedia formats to provide a comprehensive accessible reference to geography and mapping Over 350 entries are arranged alphabetically for ease of use and illustrations include maps from all periods portraits and drawings or diagrams illustrating technical topics

Biographical entries include colourful details and anecdotes as well as the important facts about each individual's contribution to cartography. Most entries include suggestions for further reading and are cross referenced to other articles.

Science Across the European Empires, 1800-1950 Benedikt Stuchtey, 2005 The volume investigates how the British French German and Dutch empires influenced or were influenced by scientific exploration as a means Western culture used to gain entry to the non Western world from around 1800 to the middle of the 20th century. The transnational perspective aids an understanding and comparison of the sciences as an instrument which the colonial powers employed to gain economic advantage and political control. The essays pay tribute to the metropolitan centre and colonial periphery viewpoints and to the different ways in which imperial expansion occurred. Science had specific meanings in the specific historical realities of European colonialism; the European case studies present similarities and differences in their imperial systems and in the way in which science was used in relation to the level at which they interacted intellectually with the indigenous populations.

Books and Travel Jennifer Laing, Warwick Frost, 2012-07-20 The books that we read whether travel focused or not may influence the way in which we understand the process or experience of travel. This multidisciplinary work provides a critical analysis of the inspirational and transformational role that books play in travel imaginings. Does reading a book encourage us to think of travel as exotic, adventurous, transformative, dangerous or educative? Do different genres of books influence a reader's view of travel in multifarious ways? These questions are explored through a literary analysis of an eclectic selection of books spanning the period from the eighteenth century to the present day. Genres covered include historical fiction, children's books, westerns, science fiction and crime fiction.

Why Travel? Kris Beuret, Matthew Niblett, 2021-07-01 Supported by the Independent Transport Commission (ITC) a registered charity. Why travel? What motivations underpin the journeys we make? And how can we make decisions that improve our travel experiences? Arguing that the desire to move is a purpose in itself, this book brings together leading experts to provide insights from multiple viewpoints across the sciences, arts and humanities. Together they examine key travel motivations including the importance of travel for human wellbeing and how these can be reconciled with challenges such as reducing our carbon footprint, adapting new mobility technologies and improving the quality of our journeys. The book shows how our travel choices are shaped by a wide range of social, physical, psychological and cultural factors which have profound implications for the design of future transport policies. Offering thought provoking and practical new perspectives, this fascinating book will be essential for all those who have ever wondered why we travel and how it relates to our fundamental needs.
