new things and show kindness and understanding Milo the kind and curious mammoth is a great reminder that learning is a lifelong adventure and that we can make the world a better more linked place by loving to learn How the story started Milo a young mammoth used to live in a place with lots of green plants and tall mountains Milo was a friendly and curious little giant who loved life more than anyone else Since he could walk he couldn't stop wanting to find out more about the world around him He would walk through the woods sniffing the air with his little tail He was excited to find new places and meet new people His never ending curiosity had no limits so he often went to the farthest parts of the land where he found secret treasures and met animals of all shapes and sizes Milo loved every chance to learn about and enjoy the beauty of nature whether it was climbing tall trees or swimming in rivers with clear water Milo's sixth birthday was coming up and he was very excited to start school He was excited about going to school because he knew it would give him access to a whole new world of information and adventures He couldn't wait to meet other young animals and tell them what he had found On the morning of his sixth birthday Milo woke up with a spring in his step He knew that today was the first day of his learning adventure He ran over to his parents swinging his trunk from side to side with joy Milo yelled to his parents Mama and Daddy today is my first day of school I can't wait to learn new things and make new friends Milo's parents Mabel and Oliver were proud of and loved their son They had watched him grow into a smart and curious young mammoth so they knew he was ready for this next step in his life Mabel got down on her knees and gave Milo a soft kiss Oh my brave little one we are so proud of you she cried Oliver said in a friendly deep voice You've always been hungry for knowledge and school will give you even more chances to learn and grow Milo you have a special talent It's great that you can make friends and find beauty in everything Keep that talent close to your heart and let it shine at your new school Milo nodded and listened to what they said He felt surer of himself when he knew his parents loved and supported him Milo ran to school with a quick breakfast and a bag full of school supplies He was excited and eager As Milo walked through the woods he couldn't help but notice the sights and sounds around him The bright colors of the flowers the soft rustling of the leaves in the wind and the sweet songs of the birds all seemed to celebrate his great day Squirrels climbing trees and bunnies hopping through fields seemed to know he was happy and waved to him Their smiles and words of encouragement sparked his drive and he ran faster He finally got to the school which was a beautiful building among the trees Its wooden building looked warm and inviting and the sounds of laughter and activity coming from inside made his heart skip a beat Milo took a big breath opened the door and walked in excited to start his first day of school Milo a small mammoth who was friendly and interested was about to go on a new journey He wanted to make a difference in the world of education with his love of travel natural generosity and never ending desire to learn He didn't know that his first day of school would be the start of a great journey full of learning friendship and lots of new things As Milo's first day of school got closer his mother Mabel was both excited and nervous As she watched her child grow and get better she saw how curious he was and how much he loved Mabel knew that school would give Milo a lot of new opportunities but she couldn't help being worried. As she held Milo tightly, her big tusks lightly touched his fur. My dear Milo, she smiled, today is a very special day for you. It's your first day of school, and I'm so proud of you. Milo looked up at his mother with big innocent eyes that were full of joy. I can't wait, Mama, he told her. I want to learn, explore, and make new friends. The little girl's words filled Mabel's heart with love. Milo would benefit from being excited, but she couldn't get her mind off of her worries. Milo is a young mammoth, but even for him, the world can be a big and strange place. She said it softly as she moved a few strands of hair out of his face. Milo, my dear, remember to be brave and kind. School is a place where you'll meet new friends and learn new things. But if you ever feel unsure or scared, know that Mama and Papa are always here for you. Milo nodded, his trunk wiggling with determination. I'll remember, Mama. I'll be brave and make you proud. Mabel's worry went away when she saw how sure and eager Milo was. She thought he was strong and kind enough to get through anything that came his way. She whispered to him, I believe in you, my little explorer, and she kissed his face. Take on this new adventure, and may it bring you joy for the rest of your life. On Milo's first day of school, Mabel got up early to make sure everything was ready for her son. She made him a healthy breakfast, packed his favorite lunchbox in the shape of an acorn, and put new papers and pencils in his new backpack. As they walked hand in hand toward school, Mabel couldn't help but feel sad. Milo had just taken his first wobbly steps, and now he was getting close to this important milestone. As Mabel walked into the playground, she looked around to see what was going on. She saw other young animals, each of which was having its own first day experience. Squirrels with tiny backpacks ran by, rabbits hopped around happily, and young foxes chatted. There was a lot of nervousness and excitement in the air. Milo's trunk was firmly squeezed by Mabel. Look, Milo, she pointed to the other animals and spoke. You're not alone. There are lots of new friends waiting to meet you. Just be yourself, and it won't take long for you to make friends. Milo's eyes grew wide as he saw all the friendly faces. He took a deep breath, and then his worries started to go away. He tightened his grip on his mother's back, drawing power from her support. Mama, thank you for believing in me, Milo said softly. Mabel smiled brightly, and her love for Milo could be seen in every part of her body. You're my precious one, Milo. Your first day of school is just the beginning of an amazing journey. Embrace it with an open heart, and remember that your Papa and I are always here for you. Mabel wrapped her arms around Milo as he walked confidently into the schoolyard, his small frame surrounded by a world of possibilities. Mabel couldn't help but feel a twinge of sadness as she felt a mix of excitement and worry. Milo was getting older and more capable of taking care of himself every day, she realized. Mabel felt happy and sad as she watched her daughter take her first steps into the bigger world. Milo's first day of school kept coming back to Mabel's mind all day. She pictured him in a classroom with people he didn't know, and she wondered how he was doing. The hours seemed to go on forever, and every minute brought a mix of joy and fear. When school was finally over, Mabel hurried to the playground to pick up Milo. As she got closer, she saw a group of young animals laughing and playing. Milo stood out from the rest because his eyes were shining with happiness. Mabel's heart jumped with relief and joy when she saw Milo get along with his new friends Every time he talked to someone his interest and friendliness stood out It was as if he had changed Milo had clearly gotten used to his new place and found his place in the busy world of school Milo ran over as soon as he knew his mother was coming waving his trunk with joy He said Mama Mama with a big smile on his face Mabel said You won't believe all the amazing things we did today Her fears were going away like morning fog Tell me everything my love I can't wait to hear all about your adventures As they walked home Milo was very excited as he told stories about his first day Mrs Hoots the smart owl who taught kids interesting things was talked about He talked about what they did during the break the friends he'd made and how exciting it was to find something new with his classmates Mabel listened carefully She was very proud of her young adventurer She couldn't believe how well Milo had not only adjusted to his new home but also done well in it Her worries were unfounded and her faith in Milo's toughness paid off What Ever Happened to the

Story Begins

Once upon a time in a far off land where the sun always shone and the breeze was always warm there lived a tribe of creatures called the Mammoths. These were gentle giants who roamed the verdant forests that surrounded their home in search of food and play. They were proud and majestic creatures with long tusks that curved up towards the sky and thick shaggy fur that protected them from the elements. The Mammoths were a peaceful tribe and they lived in harmony with all the other creatures in the forest. They were known for their kindness and their generosity and many of the smaller creatures in the forest looked up to them as protectors and friends. The Mammoths had a deep connection to nature and the world around them. They knew every inch of the forest and could navigate through it with ease using their keen sense of smell and their powerful memories. They understood the seasons and the cycles of nature and they lived in balance with the land taking only what they needed and giving back what they could. Despite their size and strength the Mammoths were not invincible. They faced challenges and dangers in their world just like any other creature. There were predators in the forest who saw the Mammoths as a source of food. There were harsh winters where food and water were scarce and the Mammoths had to rely on their instincts and their resilience to survive. But the Mammoths were not afraid of these challenges. They faced them head on with bravery and courage. They had a deep sense of community and they looked out for each other sharing food and resources when times were tough. They knew that they were stronger together than they were alone and they worked as a team to overcome any obstacle. One of the greatest challenges that the Mammoths faced was the encroachment of humans on their land. As humans began to settle in the nearby valleys they started to clear the forests destroying the Mammoths natural habitat. The Mammoths watched with sadness as their home was destroyed and they knew that they had to do something to protect themselves and their land. The Mammoths organized themselves into a council with the wisest and most experienced among them leading the way. They decided that they needed to take action to stop the humans from destroying their home. They began to reach out to other creatures in the forest forming alliances and building coalitions. Together the Mammoths and their allies worked to raise awareness about the destruction of the forest. They talked to the humans trying to reason with them and persuade them to stop cutting down the trees. They organized protests and demonstrations trying to get the attention of the wider world and bring pressure to bear on humans. The Mammoths knew that they faced an uphill battle but they were determined to protect their home. They knew that the forest was not just their home but the home of countless other creatures as well and they felt a deep responsibility to protect it. As time went on the Mammoths and their allies began to make progress. They convinced some of the humans to stop cutting down the trees and they worked with others to create protected areas within the forest. They continued to raise awareness and to fight for their cause even in the face of resistance and opposition. Eventually the humans began to see the error of their ways. They realized that they had been destroying something precious and irreplaceable and they started to work with the Mammoths and their allies to protect the forest. They set up conservation programs and reforestation projects and they started to work towards a future where humans and nature could coexist in harmony. The Mammoths watched with pride as their home was restored and protected. They knew that their efforts had made a difference and they felt a deep sense of satisfaction and gratitude. They had worked tirelessly to protect their home and their hard work had paid off. Over time the Mammoths became known as champions of the forest. They were respected and admired by all the creatures in the forest who saw them as symbols of strength and determination. They continued to live in harmony with nature, cherishing the land that they had fought so hard to protect. Despite the challenges that they had faced, the Mammoths remained optimistic about the future. They knew that there would always be challenges and obstacles to overcome, but they felt confident in their ability to face them with bravery and resilience. The Mammoths were used to spending their days playing and having fun in the forest. They would roam around grazing on the lush greenery, splashing in the streams, and playing games with each other. They enjoyed the simple pleasures of life and never worried about the future. But one day something unusual happened. The sky, which was always blue and clear, began to change. It started with a faint haze, which gradually grew thicker and darker. The Mammoths, who were playing a game of tag, paused to look up at the sky. They saw a huge, ominous cloud moving towards them, covering the sun and casting a deep shadow over the forest. The Mammoths were confused and frightened. They had never seen anything like this before and didn't know what to make of it. They looked at each other, wondering if they should run or hide, but they could not move. The sky continued to darken, and the cloud grew closer and larger. The Mammoths could hear strange rumbling sounds coming from the cloud, and they felt the ground shaking beneath their feet. Suddenly, the cloud burst open, and a fierce storm descended upon the forest. The wind howled, the rain poured down in sheets, and lightning flashed across the sky. The Mammoths huddled together, trying to find shelter from the storm, but there was none. Middle School Journal, 1980 The Publishers Weekly, 1994 Let the

Marvin was different from the other young mammoths in his group. Littler and nicer he seemed to be more interested in everything around him. Marvin got lost from his group one bright and sunny morning because he was curious and liked to try new things. Birds singing and leaves rustling were the only sounds you could hear in the woods. He looked around some more and found a bush that stood out from the rest. It was covered in bright red berries that looked so good. As an interested mammoth, Marvin had to touch the strange nuts. He reached out and gave one a soft touch with his trunk. He was shocked when it blew up and bright red juice flew everywhere it touched. The juice had made a pretty colorful line on the gray rock next to the plant. Marvin was stunned by the beautiful show of colors. It looks like he found a valuable secret inside the common red fruit. After making this wonderful find, Marvin had to touch more berries. This time he swept his big soft tail through the plants. The red on the rock turned blue, yellow, and green as more berries popped under light pressure. When the colors got close together, they mixed to make new colors like orange, purple, and blue. He swung his tail back and forth, painting the nature scene with each stroke. Marvin was amazed. Marvin learned how much he liked the colors when he used the berries to paint. They were very different from the duller colors of the mammoth group and the normal browns and grays of the forest. His heart was drawn to the bright colors that sparkled in the sun. Marvin thought Marvin was interested so he kept trying new things. He squished a lot of berries together to make new colors. He found that some of the berries turned into a happy bright orange while others turned into a deep rich purple. Marvin was thrilled every time he found a new color. Marvin got lost in the berries and forgot how much time had passed. As the sun moved across the sky, it brought out the beauty of his rock art. The colors sparkled in the warm afternoon sun, and Marvin was so happy that he had turned some ordinary berries from the trees into something so beautiful. Marvin thought this was a turning point. He had a hidden love for painting and colors that came easily to him like how he naturally swung his trunk and blew trumpets. There was, however, a hint of uneasiness. How did those around it see it? Instead of being creative and coming up with new ideas, they valued being big and strong. Even though Marvin knew his new love was special, it brought him a lot of happiness. He was scared, but Marvin decided he couldn't give up drawing, which he had recently become very interested in. He couldn't have ignored the colors or how much happiness they gave him. He made up his mind to come back to this spot with the bright berries and keep painting whenever he could get away from the crowd. When Marvin went back to see his family that day, he felt good inside and his steps were easy. He began to understand a very important truth about himself as he discovered the joys of color and art. He learned that it was okay to be different and that being interested and willing to try new things can sometimes lead to amazing finds. Even though Marvin was small, he had a big heart and an even bigger love for painting. He had a lot of good days ahead of him after this trip. Each color he made was a step toward accepting himself, and each flick of his tail across the stones in the forest was a step toward living out his unique fate Chapter 2 The First Wisp Marvin was a big creative young man who was always coming up with new ideas Having fun with berries in the woods had made him love colors and he couldn't wait to try something even better He found a big flat rock that looked like it would be great for his first piece of art Marvin went up to the rock with interest and purpose and the berries were still dripping down his tail As Marvin stood in front of the rock he dug his tail into a new spot of broken berries Then he started painting very slowly and without much care With such ease his tail moved across the rock's surface leaving behind beautiful color streaks With each stroke he drew wavy lines that moved across the rock like bright rivers Bright blue streaks and bright yellow made a green that looked like it sparkled in the sun As the color changed from red to purple Marvin thought of the flowers that bloomed for a short time in the spring A small bird had flown down to check things out but Marvin was drawing and didn't see it The bright colors on the rock caught the bird's eye and it moved quickly toward it It got closer when it saw a mammoth using its tail as a brush With a curious chirp the bird turned its head to the side to look at Marvin's picture It asked What are you doing Marvin stopped and his tail was an array of colors He turned around and saw a small bird watching him Marvin excited to have an audience said I'm painting I found these berries and saw that they could make beautiful colors so I decided to use them to make something special The bird hopped closer its little beak opening a little in surprise
