Mary Hallock Greenewalt The Complete Patents:

Mary Hallock-Greenewalt Mary Hallock-Greenewalt,2005-01-01 Mary Hallock Greenewalt played the piano with the Philadelphia and Pittsburgh Orchestras as a concert soloist invented her own color organ that she called a Sarabet after her mother and in her pursuit of the art she named Nourathar by combining the Arabic words for essence of light she had to invent the machinery required as well Numbered among her inventions are the rheostat that allows the gradual fading of light the mercury switch and was among the earliest developers of colored gel filters for tinting theatrical lights Her patent for the rheostat became the subject of an infringement lawsuit in the late 1920s against such large corporations as General Electric a lawsuit that she ultimately won in 1936 This volume collects all eleven of her technology patents revealing the refinement and evolution of the Sarabet These patents also enable a clear evaluation of her contributions to visual music since as Dr Betancourt notes in his introduction the patents allow a much clearer determination of her place in history and a peer reviewed statement of her accomplishments

Making Images Move Gregory Zinman,2020-01-03 Making Images Move reveals a new history of cinema by uncovering its connections to other media and art forms In this richly illustrated volume Gregory Zinman explores how moving image artists who worked in experimental film pushed the medium toward abstraction through a number of unconventional filmmaking practices including painting and scratching directly on the film strip deteriorating film with water dirt and bleach and applying materials such as paper and glue This book provides a comprehensive history of this tradition of handmade cinema from the early twentieth century to the present opening up new conversations about the production meaning and significance of the moving image From painted film to kinetic art and from psychedelic light shows to video synthesis Gregory Zinman recovers the range of forms tools and intentions that make up cinema's shadow history deepening awareness of the intersection of art and media in the twentieth century and anticipating what is to come

Thomas Wilfred's Clavilux Michael Betancourt,2006-01-01 This anthology brings together the few essays on Lumia that were published during Thomas Wilfred's lifetime Wilfred an artist who experimented with a form of visual music he called Lumia developed an entire aesthetic system that could either be performed live or set up as an automatic display His instrument the Clavilux was subject of several patents collected along with images from Opus 161 Together these essays the patents and selected images provide a clear description of Lumia what Wilfred described as the eighth art

The Lumonics Theater Mel Tanner,Dorothy Tanner,2005-03-01 In 1969 Mel Tanner had an aesthetic breakthrough and both he and his wife Dorothy began to construct a theater where they could combine all their work with sculpture and painting into a form of visual music The result of that inspiration was the Lumonics Theater The performance space they built was composed of 50 sculptures a battery of projectors lasers and the spontaneous creativity that transforms technology into virtuoso performance art The entire performance was designed so that no two are alike This book describes the more than thirty year history and development of their theater from its beginnings in the 1960s through its final days in 2003 Force Magnifier Michael Betancourt, 2020-04-20 What exactly does AI automate Betancourt begins with the obvious answer human labor and ends with the nature of value created in capitalism His analysis was written for a lecture at the Aspen Institute Germany's Third Annual Berlin AI Conference Humanity Enabled AI the Great Economic Awakening in March 2020 The great decoupling of labor from productivity and value suggests the potential for a post labor economy and the expansion of the society of leisure formerly reserved for only the dominant social classes This book concerns the social cultural and economic barriers to the development of a fairer egalitarian and more democratic society in terms of a broad kaleidoscopic array of tendencies including the gamification of social activity by social credit the role of marketing in popular media the authoritarian usurpation of democracy in the smart city and the proposal of universal basic income as a palliative for the replacement of human labor by machinery Opposition to the emergence of the society of leisure is not economic but cultural a confluence of religious and social prohibitions on leisure that simultaneously devalue demonize and disenfranchise labor this emergent conflict is the cultural significance of AI About the author Michael Betancourt is a critical theorist and research artist whose work is concerned with the cultural impacts of digital technology and capitalist ideology He has written more than thirty books including The Critique of Digital Capitalism The Digital Agent versus Human Agency The History of Motion Graphics and Glitch Art in Theory and Practice His writing has been translated into Chinese French German Greek Italian Japanese Persian Portuguese and Spanish These publications complement his movies which have been screened internationally in art fairs film festivals and museums Visual Music Instrument Patents Michael Betancourt, 2004-01-01 This book is a collection of primary source documents for visual music instruments often called color organs or lumia gleaned from the United States Patent Office Back cover Harmony and Dissent R. Bruce Elder, 2010-04-22 R Bruce Elder argues that the authors of many of the manifestoes that announced in such lively ways the appearance of yet another artistic movement shared a common aspiration they proposed to reformulate the visual literary and performing arts so that they might take on attributes of the cinema The cinema Elder argues became in the early decades of the twentieth century a pivotal artistic force around which a remarkable variety and number of aesthetic forms took shape To demonstrate this Elder begins with a wide ranging discussion that opens up some broad topics concerning modernity's cognitive and perceptual regime with a view to establishing that a crisis within that regime engendered some peculiar and highly questionable epistemological beliefs and enthusiasms Through this discussion Elder advances the startling claim that a crisis of cognition precipitated by modernity engendered by way of response a peculiar sort of pneumatic spiritual epistemology Elder then shows that early ideas of the cinema were strongly influenced by this pneumatic epistemology and uses this conception of the cinema to explain its pivotal role in shaping two key moments in early twentieth century art the quest to bring forth a pure objectless non representational art and Russian Suprematism Constructivism and Productivism The History of Motion Graphics Michael Betancourt, 2020-04-20 Expand your knowledge of the aesthetics forms and meaning of motion graphics as well as the long running connections between the American avant garde film video art and TV commercials In 1960 avant garde animator and inventor John Whitney started a company called Motion Graphics Inc to make animated titles and logos His new company crystalized a relationship between avant garde film and commercial broadcast design film titles Careful discussion of historical works puts them in context allowing their reappearance in contemporary motion graphics clear This book includes a thorough examination of the history of title design from the earliest films through the present including Walter Anthony Saul Bass Maurice Binder Pablo Ferro Wayne Fitzgerald Nina Saxon and Kyle Cooper This book also covers early abstract film the Futurists Bruno Corra and Arnaldo Ginna Leopold Survage Walther Ruttmann Viking Eggeling Hans Richter Oskar Fischinger Mary Ellen Bute Len Lye and Norman McLaren and puts the work of visual music pioneers Mary Hallock Greenewalt and Thomas Wilfred in context The History of Motion Graphics is the essential textbook and general reference for understanding how and where the field of motion graphic design came from and where it s going Decisions of Commissioner of Patents and U.S. Courts in Patent and Trademark and Copyright Cases United States.
